Canadian Cabinet Member Visitor At Soviet Capital

Hon. W. D. Euler and Party Leave Moscow, Where Reports Say They Explored Trade Possibilities

Had Talks There With Commissar

Canadian Press
New York, July 30.—A Moscow cable in The New York Times today said the possibility of a renewal of Canadian-Soviet relations was seen in the Soviet capital as Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce for the Dominion, left there with his party.
During their Moscow stay Mr. Euler and his party conferred with A. P. Rozenfeld, Foreign Trade Commissar, L. N. Rubenstein, representing the Amtorg, and other Soviet officials.
No statement was obtainable from either Mr. Euler or the Soviet officials. However, The Times cable said the Canadian minister remarked the King government was not hostile to the Soviet regime.
Canada broke off relations with Soviet Russia at the same time as Great Britain. Subsequently, in 1931, Canada declared an embargo on a list of Soviet shipments. Britain and the Soviet have long since patched up their differences and now enjoy cordial trade relations.

Will Carry King On Cruise

YACHT NAHLIN

Associated Press
London, July 30.—King Edward has chartered the yacht Nahlin for a three or four week cruise along the Dalmatian coast, it was announced today at Buckingham Palace.
The King will probably join the yacht in about ten days at Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia. He will be accompanied by three or four friends.
The vessel is the property of Lady Yule, widow of Sir David Yule, Anglo-Indian merchant. It is a twin-screw vessel which originally cost $1,500,000, and is registered in Glasgow.
The cruise will replace a projected vacation at Cannes, France, which was cancelled after the outbreak of the Spanish rebellion.
Dalmatia, a section of Yugoslavia, borders on the Adriatic Sea.

Seven Manitoba Ridings Have Count Still Incomplete

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, July 30.—There was an atmosphere of uncertainty today over the future of Premier John Bracken's Liberal-Progressive administration in Manitoba. Questions of a working majority for the government alignment was submerged in the backwash from belated recounts in ten city seats and four rural ridings completed last night.
A survey of the provincial field that poured out a deluge of votes in the general election Monday disclosed government forces had achieved victory in twenty-one ridings and by a slight margin held the preferred position in two others where counting was in progress. Conservatives under Erick F. Willis had captured fourteen seats in the Assembly of fifty-five and were leading in two others.
Fortunes in fourteen constituencies were divided between C.C.F., Social Credit, Independents and Communists. Voting has been deferred in two ridings.

PLANE UPSETS IN ESQUIMALT

Pilot Featherstone Has Close Call When Airplane Capsizes in Harbor

John Featherstone, 1365 Rockland Avenue, student pilot of Victoria, narrowly escaped drowning this afternoon when the plane in which he was taking off on his first solo flight in Esquimalt Harbor capsized, turning completely over and throwing him out of the cockpit.
He was rescued a few minutes after the accident by Constable Lindsey Brine, of the R.C.M.P. stationed at Esquimalt, and Albert Downes, a yard man at the naval barracks.
Featherstone was a student of T. H. Finney's Esquimalt seaplane school. Mr. Finney reported the plane "porpoised" in the take-off.
Constable Brine and Downes immediately put out in a rowboat and when they reached the plane Featherstone was clinging to one of the wings. His only injuries were reported to be a bruised knee and other minor bruises.
The plane is owned by C. Jones of Wells Air Harbor, Vancouver, and Featherstone was making a trial trip.

MORE FOR CROP

Canadian Press
Regina, July 30.—Dollar wheat will mean a gain of $15,000,000 for Saskatchewan farmers, according to grain statisticians here today. A crop worth at least $185,000,000 is in prospect despite drought losses in southern districts.

Vancouver, July 30 (C.P.).—Miss M. E. Marshall, a visitor from Vulcan, Alberta, reported to police yesterday evening that her purse containing $45 and return fare to the Alberta city had been stolen from her room in a downtown hotel. She had left the door open while on an errand and had only been gone for a few minutes when the theft was committed.

NAVAL PACT WITH RUSSIA

Completion of British-Soviet Agreement Announced By Admiralty in London

London, July 30.—An Anglo-Russian naval agreement "on all points" was announced at the Admiralty today.
No date was set for signing the treaty; but it was stated to be completely drafted.
All that remains to be done, officials said, is to inform other powers which are parties to the Washington Naval Treaty, including France, Italy, the United States and Japan, and other governments with which Great Britain is now negotiating bilateral treaties.
These include Poland, Germany and probably Denmark.
The object of the Anglo-Russian agreement, it was stated officially, was to obtain Soviet adherence to the principles of the recent tripartite London pact between Britain, the United States and France.
This accord provides for limitations of tonnage in different categories, but not of the number of ships and for an exchange of building information between the signatory powers.

SECOND TORONTO KNIFE ATTACK

Canadian Press
Toronto, July 30.—For the second time in twenty-four hours a man who brandishes a knife threatened a young girl, police reported today.
Dorothy Houlden, sixteen, of suburban York told officers she was attacked yesterday evening by a man who threatened her with a knife. She screamed as he leaped at her, she said, and he fled. Tuesday night in the same district another sixteen-year-old girl reported a similar attack, but as she fled the man hurled the knife at her, wounding her shoulder.

"DEATH VOLUNTEERS"

Associated Press
Paris, July 30.—Spanish rebel fighters, undaunted by "explosion and destruction, were reported organized today into a "battalion of death."
Gen. Quepo de Llano, fascist commander at Seville, announced formation of the "Volunteers of Death" in a broadcast received here.
The pilots are ready to take aloft planes full of explosives, he said, and hurl the ships into liberal encampments and strongholds.

Opposing Leaders In Spain

If the rebels should capture Madrid reports from loyalist quarters in Spain say Diego Martinez Barrio, left, parliament president, may undertake to rule the country, or at least the loyalist parts of it, from some other city. The provisional administration, or junta, set up by the rebels in the parts of Spain they now control is headed by Miguel Cabanellas, right, former captain-general of Zaragoza.

Connell Breaks With C.C.F. Group

"I am Unable to Accept Platform Passed By Recent Convention," Says House Leader in Letter to Executive

As an aftermath of the recent Co-operative Commonwealth Federation convention in Vancouver, a major sensation in British Columbia politics developed today when Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the party in the Legislature, informed the provincial executive that he could not support the platform and policies of the C.C.F. as they are now expressed in British Columbia.
The copy of a letter he wrote to the executive was made public here by Mr. Connell without comment.
In it he described the C.C.F. platform as drafted at the party convention as "calculated to excite hopes that cannot be fulfilled, and so to cause disillusionment and disappointment."
The Socialized finance plank he described as "fantastic and impracticable."
He also attacked the choice of a "self-declared pro-Communist" as chairman of the organization committee of the association, and deplored the C.C.F. plan of making house representatives simply delegates of the C.C.F.
Chairman of the C.C.F. organization committee is E. E. Winch, M.P.P. for Burnaby.
Mr. Connell's letter was interpreted as a complete split between the so-called temperate wing of the C.C.F. party and what is known as the radical wing, which gained control of the association at the recent convention, electing Dr. Lyle Telford as president.
In view of the growing strength of the C.C.F. in British Columbia and an impending election next year, this split assumed wide significance.

Raps Platform

On the future political developments in the province.
Mr. Connell has been official Leader of the Opposition since 1933. In some circles he was regarded as the man who would take over the office of premier in the event of the C.C.F. gaining control of the Legislature, although the organization has expressly stated his position was simply the leader of the seven C.C.F. members in the House.
At the recent convention Mr. Connell (Turn to Page 13, Column 5)

VIMY PILGRIMS AT HAIG TOMB

Memory of Army Leader Honored at Service at Dryburgh Abbey, Southern Scotland; Other Canadians at St. Paul's in London
By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY, M.C.
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Dryburgh, Scotland, July 30.—This little Scottish border community was stirred today by a ceremony unique in its age-old history. The ancient abbey, whose ruins have for four centuries looked over the rippling River Tweed, was the locale of a service which saw the homage of the government and people of Canada paid to the memory of Earl Haig of Bonnington, who commanded the British Empire armies in France during the Great War.
At the same time a wreath of poppies and Canadian maple leaves was deposited on the simple soldier's cross which marks the Haig sepulchre.
Rev. John Kelman, minister of the Atrbank Presbyterian Church, Toronto, and national representative of the Canadian Legion, was the preacher at the special service, which was attended by members of the Vimy Pilgrimage, representatives of the Canadian Government and many Scottish dignitaries.
Taking as his text the 27th Psalm: "The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?"
Mr. Kelman stressed the qualities which contributed to the greatness of Haig and which had endeared him to the Canadian soldiers.

He appeared in the best of health today.
Big Bay, Mich., July 30.—Henry Ford was seventy-three years old today.
He watched a pile of congratulatory messages accumulate at his cottage in the Huron Mountain Club reservation, but otherwise observed the occasion without special ceremony.

Rebels Say They Hold Valencia; Loyalists In Victory North Of Madrid

Insurgent General and Eighteen Fascist Officers Executed at San Sebastian; Merchant Marine of Spain Taken Over By Government; All Civilian Fliers Are Put in Service

Associated Press
Gibraltar, July 30.—The insurgent radio station at Seville, Spain, announced today the garrison at Valencia had revolted against the government and gone over to the rebels.
Valencia has been a major point of evacuation for foreigners from Madrid.
A Spanish government cruiser, appearing close to Europa Point, was given a wide berth today by other shipping in fear of rebel air bombs.
The loyalist warship, either the Libertad or the Cervantes, headed westward toward the strait of Gibraltar.

Associated Press
Pamplona, Spain, July 30.—Gen. Carrasco, commander of the rebel barracks at Loyola, near San Sebastian, and eighteen rightist officers were executed by loyal troops, it was reported here today.
General Carrasco was the former military governor of San Sebastian.

Associated Press
Madrid, July 30.—Loyalist Spain confiscated its merchant marine today to form an anti-fascist armada of defence and launched a desperate ground and air battle for possession of the strategic city of Zaragoza.
Leftist forces, the government announced, were driving insurgent fascists out of the Guadarrama Mountains north of Madrid and back to Avila and Segovia.
In addition to giving merchant ships an official naval status, authorities summoned all military and civil fliers to the Cuatro Vientos airbase for orders to join in Anti-fascist flights.
RETREAT COVERED
The boom of rebel cannon in the Guadarrama was believed by Loyalists to be a covering barrage for an insurgent retreat.
Zaragoza, Seville, Cordoba and Granada still were in rebel hands, but the government claimed the insurgents were demoralized because of lack of citizen support.
All four cities were the targets, moreover, of powerful attacks by loyal planes, militiamen, troops and guards.
Authorities said Barcelona, Valencia and Madrid were "completely normal." (In contrast, advances reaching the French border from Barcelona described increasingly strained relations between extremists and the provincial government there, with looting reported frequent.)
FIGHT AT OVIEDO
Gonzales Pena, leader of the Asturian mine revolt of 1934, was at the head of several thousand miners continuing a merciless siege of the northern rebel city of Oviedo.
Madrid's defence chiefs mobilized armed sections from every class of the citizenry—even the shopgirls. The Hispano-American University Federation created three of these defence sections. Another was a "steel brigade" of 440 strong men.
AMBULANCE AS WEAPON
Madrid police announced they had captured a "black ambulance" which had been seized from the Red Cross (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

Drowning Girl Saved By Boys

Youth Drowned in Kettle River; Former Victoria Children Save Companion

Canadian Press
Grand Forks, B.C., July 30.—The swift-flowing Kettle River today had claimed one life but was cheated of a second victim by the heroic efforts of two boys, one twelve and one ten years old.
George Egg, fourteen-year-old son of George C. Egg of Grand Forks, was drowned in the river about seven miles east of here when swept down stream as he attempted to cross an apparently shallow point while fishing. A companion, Maurice McKay, plunged into the river fully clothed in an unsuccessful attempt to save the boy.
Jean, nineteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Murrell, Christian Valley farmer, was rescued from the river by William and Robert Sexton of Quesnel, formerly of Victoria.
The two boys and the girl were bathing in the river near the Murrell home when she found herself being carried away by the current.
She called to the boys and they dragged a raft into the water and started paddling after her. By the time they overtook her she had lost consciousness and only her hair was showing.
The lads grasped the girl and dragged her on the raft, then paddled back to shore, where they obtained aid and removed her to her home.

hospital by alleged fascists. The police reported the ambulance had dashed through the streets in a mad ride of death, shooting down militiamen and killing and wounding several. Some wounded militiamen were said to have been found dead inside the ambulance.

Luis Companys, provincial President of Catalonia, flew over the Aragon front (Zaragoza region) and reported to leftist officials the liberal armies were advancing victoriously.

Leading the government troops was a column under Colonel Villalba, the President reported.

Government airplanes were bombing the rebels, he said, and aiding the offensive from strategic points.

FORCE WIPED OUT

Associated Press

Perpignan, France, July 30.—Spanish mountaineers reported here today that more than 2,000 loyal troops were killed when ambushed in the hills outside of Zaragoza by the rebel army.

The mountaineers, who said they had marched with leftist forces on Zaragoza, told French officials at the border village of Bagueres de Luchon that one of the main leftist columns was surrounded and mowed down by fascist machine guns.

The ambush took place, they related, in a pass about forty kilometres outside of Zaragoza. The rebels had mounted machine guns on the hills commanding the pass, and as the loyalist troops marched through the insurrectionists opened fire.

PLANES CRASHED

Casablanca, French Morocco, July 30 (Associated Press).—The crash of a rebel airplane carrying arms to Spanish Morocco and the attempted bombing of the Moroccan freighter Frank by insurgent aircraft were reported by travelers who reached here today.

The captain of the freighter said eleven bombs were dropped near his ship off Ceuta, Morocco, but that none scored a hit.

Leftist refugees said a tri-motored rebel plane, carrying arms to Melilla, crashed on the airfield at Saldia du Kisa, a few miles from the Franco-Spanish-Moroccan border.

Four occupants of the plane were killed.

Vimy Reception Stirs London

Many Pictures Of King Printed

London Papers Feature Buckingham Garden Party at Which Edward VIII Spoke Informally and Was Cheered By Canadian Veterans

Canadian Press

London, July 30.—The Canadian pilgrimage reception at Buckingham Palace featured morning newspapers today.

Many pictures of the King's informal appearance yesterday afternoon among the ex-service men were printed, while Prime Minister Baldwin's moving appeal to the pilgrims yesterday forenoon was the theme of many editorials.

The London Daily Mail editorially welcomed the Canadians and said: "We can never forget that we are one with Canada. Her soldier sons were pre-eminent for courage and endurance in the fiercest struggle which history records, and their noble deeds will ever be remembered here with gratitude and affection."

The Morning Post expressed the hope the visitors from overseas had been as favorably impressed with London and its people as the Londoners had been with their guests, and added: "We can assure our visitors we not only welcome them, but take pride in them."

The Times, in an editorial, said: "It is the wish and belief of all Englishmen that our Canadian visitors, whether their blood be French or English, will continue to regard their country as the home of their own traditions and a sanctuary belonging to themselves."

"England does not presume to thank Canada for the glorious service rendered at so terrible a cost on Vimy Ridge and many another stricken field of twenty years ago. That service was not rendered to England, but to the Empire that is greater than any of its members, and to something greater than the Empire—a vision of ultimate eternal righteousness in the conscience of suffering mankind."

E.H.M.-Y.-H

KING CENTRE OF THRONO

King Edward has never been nearer a real undisputed throne than when he appeared at the Duke of Gloucester's garden party to 8,000 Canadian Vimy pilgrims and friends at Buckingham Palace yesterday afternoon.

Girls struggled to pat him on the back and men thrust forward to shake hands. His bodyguard of detectives had to apply gentle but unmistakable force to make way for him. He seemed to enjoy it thoroughly and was all smiles when at length, looking not at all disconcerted, he reached the comparative seclusion of the Royal enclosure.

His appearance was in the nature of a surprise, as it was the Duke of Gloucester's entertainment primarily and there had been doubt as to whether His Majesty would be able to attend. But to delighted cheers and amid a whirlwind crush of berets and hats of every feminine variety, the King was eventually spotted, hatless and in a grey lounge suit, striding across the lawn.

Thousands of visitors wedged themselves around the Royal enclosure, eager to catch even a glimpse of His Majesty and his companions, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and other guests.

SPEECH BY KING

And to complete the afternoon's enjoyment, just as the company was dispersing, His Majesty made a little speech, as happy in style and manner for such an occasion as that delivered amidst the ceremony at Vimy Ridge last Sunday. Obviously moved by the tumult of acclamation, he held up his hand for silence. In a voice carrying far across the crowded lawn, he said: "Old comrades and friends from Canada, none of us who were present at the wonderful ceremony at Vimy on Sunday can ever possibly forget it. For me personally my recollections will always be vivid, because it brought me into contact again with so many Canadians."

"It brought back memories to me, not only of the Canadian Corps during the war, but also of my four visits to the Dominion. It was a very beautiful and moving occasion, but inevitably tinged with sadness."

"Today we meet under less solemn and certainly happier circumstances—although, I am sorry to say, somewhat damper circumstances."

This raised an outburst of laughter. "We don't care. We are enjoying ourselves," shouted one pilgrim as the King glanced ruefully upward at the teeming heavens.

"I don't take any responsibility for this rain," continued the King, which raised another merry shout. "I can only hope you have not got very wet, and when I know how badly the rain is needed in Canada, especially in the west ('Alberta-High River'—interrupted a pilgrim), I can say that we certainly have the rain in the wrong place."

"I want to assure you what a very great pleasure it is to welcome you at Buckingham Palace and to see you before you sail for your homes in Canada. I sincerely hope you will enjoy every minute of your stay here, and carry back memories of the great pilgrimage to hearten you in the years to come."

As the King finished, there was another storm of applause. "Someone started 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow' and it was over."

Fellow, 8,000 voices taking up the refrain.

There surely never previously had been such a gathering on the wide-spread lawns of the palace. The reception was a repetition in miniature of that at Vimy.

The weather was typical of an English afternoon—such as at least this season has so often given. There were lowering skies to begin with, then the sun shone brightly for half an hour, after which came a down-pour.

It pelted down but whole battalions of the visitors would not desert their positions of vantage around the enclosure where servants in gold and scarlet served tea on the famous royal gold plate.

Hundreds sought shelter within the palace itself. They sat just where they could—on the steps, on settees and window ledges.

Some visitors sat down at tables and wrote postcards to friends "From Buckingham Palace."

BRITAIN SELLS RUSSIA GOODS

Credit of $50,000,000 For Soviet in United Kingdom Announced Today

Associated Press

London, July 30.—An Anglo-Russian commercial agreement establishing a $50,000,000 ($50,000,000) credit for Soviet orders for British exports was announced today by the House of Commons today by Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade.

The agreement was entered into Tuesday between the Export Credits Guarantee Department and the Soviet trade representative. The department gave guarantees in connection with orders which the Soviet government organizations are to place in Great Britain.

Russian orders are to be placed by September 30, 1937. Mr. Runciman said the Soviet trade representative had given formal assurance that Russia intended to place orders up to the full limit of the credit. They will not, however, include munitions.

TALKS WITH ITALY END

Mr. Runciman also announced suspension of Anglo-Italian negotiations for a resumption of trade. Italy, he said, was unwilling to accept any arrangement in regard to trade which could be considered "adequate."

At the same time Italy was imposing severe restrictions in imports from the United Kingdom, he said.

Mr. Runciman declared the British position, announced July 18, of refusing to admit exports from Italy to Britain with the exception of fresh fruits and vegetables, since lifted.

Russian sources said the credit for the Soviet would be for a period of five years at annual interest of 5½ per cent.

They said the Soviet previously has been unable to procure credits at such favorable rates over such a long period.

Two Sentenced To Four Years

Canadian Press

Vancouver, July 30.—Albert C. Armour, thirty-six, and James Miller, forty-two, today were convicted by Judge A. McHarper in county court on charges of conspiracy to steal $5,000 from George S. Andrus, sixty-two-year-old retired Saskatchewan farmer who now resides in Victoria, and each sentenced to four years imprisonment.

In the case of Armour the sentence will be concurrent with a similar sentence imposed by Judge Harper on May 6 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring to defraud James Campbell, retired railway employee of Stratford, Ont., of $7,580.

The Toronto minister recalled the "scurrilous attacks" on the memory of Haig by those who had become bold enough to launch them when his great soul was silenced forever. These had been met with calmness, with dignity and unflinching courage by Lady Haig, widow of the commander.

AT ST. PAUL'S, LONDON

London, July 30.—Between 500 and 600 of the Canadian Vimy pilgrims today attended a service in St. Paul's Cathedral. The dean, Very Rev. W. R. Matthews, officiated. The service consisted of a shortened form of morning prayer.

Afterwards the pilgrims descended in a body into the crypt of the cathedral. Col. W. W. Foster, first vice-president of the Canadian Legion, and Gen. E. A. Baker, on behalf of blinded soldiers, laid wreaths on the grave of Earl Jellicoe, commander of the British fleet at the Battle of Jutland.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 of the Vimy Pilgrims will return to France for a five-day visit as guests of the French government. The remainder are scattered through the British Isles. Some of them attended a service today in memory of Earl Haig at Dryburgh Abbey, Scotland.

Those of the pilgrims who are planning to return to France will head homeward for Canada over the week-end, traveling in various steamships.

Injunction Stops Fraser Bridge Work

New Westminster, July 30.—Construction work on the north approach of the new Fraser bridge today was at a standstill following the granting by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson in the British Columbia Supreme Court in Vancouver of an injunction restraining Joseph Dorgan, right-of-way agent for the British Columbia government, and the McKenzie Construction Company from tearing down house property.

The injunction will continue in force until the trial of Mrs. Rathbone's action, in which she claims damages for trespassing. She has an application pending for a fiat to join the Minister of Public Works for British Columbia as a co-defendant.

Opposing the injunction, the defendants claimed it would result in seriously delay in the construction of the bridge approach.

Dr. G. C. Webber Goes to Chicago

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 30.—Word has been received here of the appointment of Dr. G. Cuthbert Webber, graduate of the University of British Columbia, to the mathematics department of the Armour Institute, Chicago.

Dr. Webber, a son of Rev. George G. Webber of Vancouver, received his

B.A. degree with first-class honors in mathematics in 1930 and two years later was awarded his M.A. from the university here with a fellowship in mathematics at the University of Chicago, where he won his Ph.D. degree in 1935.

He was also awarded an American National Research fellowship, which he has held during the last two years at Brown and Pennsylvania Universities.

NEW GASOLINE SAFETY DEVICE

W. H. Horn, Winnipeg Inventor,
Demonstrates Explosive
Prevention

Toronto, July 30.—William Henry Horn of Winnipeg, fifty-six-year-old German-born inventor, was in Toronto today ready to demonstrate his invention for preventing gasoline explosions to 500-odd fire chiefs from Canada and the United States now in convention.

For bystanders' benefit, as a preview he tossed a lighted match into half-filled gasoline cans, poured flaming gasoline from one can to another and dropped lighted cigarettes into gasoline-filled tanks.

Horn exhibited an 18-inch regulation gasoline container in which he had built a sieve-like screen, running down the intake opening about seven-eighths the depth of the can.

A similar, but smaller, screening extended down the outlet opening. This screen, Horn said, enabled oxygen to enter the tank without fear of the "static flash" which causes most explosions.

As a safeguard against evaporation and consequent accumulated pressure, the intake opening is divided by a thin sheet of mercury-silver which under a heat of 500 degrees Fahrenheit and the resultant pressure, allows only the cap to explode. The screens prevent any gasoline explosion, according to Horn.

HOSPITAL WORK SOON TO START

Duncan, July 30.—Negotiations for the financing of new building plans at the King's Daughters Hospital are progressing favorably, and it is expected construction will be started at an early date, it was reported to the board of directors on Monday by K. F. Duncan, vice-chairman.

The hospital's financial report for the month showed revenue amounting to $5,322.59, against an expenditure of $5,008.72. Cash receipts totaled $5,299.25.

POURING BASE OF TELESCOPE

Workmen Building Foundation
For 200-inch Instrument
on Mount Palomar,
Cal., World's Largest

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Mt. Palomar, Calif., July 30. With fifty workmen prepared to pour the concrete for the foundation of the world's largest telescope on this 6,126-foot mountain, an ultra short-wave experimental radio station has been installed to facilitate instant communication on construction progress with scientists in charge at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, 100 miles away.

Operating on a wave length of seven metres, the radio station, having call letters of WEXKY, is in direct communication with station WEXXX, on the roof of the Astrophysical Building at Pasadena.

Because of the directional effect of such short waves the antennae of both stations are focused on each other. The stations are serving the double purpose of furnishing heads of the observatory project with direct communication facilities, and of permitting Caltech and Bell Telephone scientists to experiment with such short waves.

NEW EXPLORATION

Wave lengths under ten metres have been considered of little commercial value, and these stations, in addition to furnishing communications, also are supplying scientists with data on the behavior and nature of ultra short waves, information heretofore unavailable. Operating on seven metres, the stations are unable to tune into any others.

As a result of this radio installation, Capt. C. S. McDowell, supervising engineer for the telescope, stationed at Pasadena, can get into instant touch with supervisors on the mountain regarding construction details.

In addition to construction of the 200-inch telescope foundation, workers are completing the machine shop and power equipment structure in which two generators driven by diesel engines will be installed to furnish power to the village at the site.

ANXIOUS "EYE"

Experts are installing the Schmidt telescope in a dome completed some time ago. Observations with this eighteen-inch reflector, an auxiliary "eye" to the 200-inch mirror, will furnish astronomers with an index of seeing qualities at the time the giant telescope is completed and ready for use.

A 1,000,000-gallon water reservoir has been built, as have two diesel oil storage tanks, in addition to bungalows to house workmen and scientists. The contract for fabrication of the 200-inch telescope tube has been awarded Westinghouse in Philadelphia. This part of the telescope, including a giant yoke, will have a total weight of approximately 900,000 pounds.

ROAD TO BE COMPLETED

Delivery of the tube will not start until the dome is completed. The dome itself will not be started until after a surface high gear road is laid down to the site, probably next spring. No other major construction is planned for the remainder of 1936. A skeleton crew will be maintained during the winter, laying water mains, installing transmission cables and doing additional work on the 200-inch instrument foundation which will be separate from the foundation for the dome to reduce vibration and shock on the instrument.

ITALIANS FIND ANCIENT THEATRE

Associated Press
Cassina, Italy, July 30.—Discovery of an Augustan Age theatre, regarded as one of the most important archaeological finds in Italy in recent years, was announced yesterday. Even remnants of the machinery for raising the curtain were uncovered in the well-preserved ruins of the centuries-old building.

It was found on the site of the ancient town of Cassina, where the relics yielded were inscriptions, statues, money and stagecraft utensils dating back to the time of the Caesars.

Cassina was the ancient Italian town where Mark Antony was reputed to have held his orgies and where, at the foot of a mountain, the Romans constructed a still-existing amphitheatre.

POWER CONTROL CHANGES HANDS

Associated Press
London, July 30.—Control of large English utility properties was transferred yesterday from United States to English hands in what was regarded here as one of the most important of such international moves in post-war years.

Lazard Brothers and associates of London purchased the holdings of Utilities Power and Light Corporation, a United States concern, in the Greater London and Counties Trust Limited, a holding company controlled by Utilities Power and Light. By the purchase Lazard Brothers now own all the ordinary shares of Edmundson's Electricity Corporation, controlled by the Greater London and Counties Trust, not already held by the public. The Edmundson's share capital totals about £7,000,000 (about $38,000,000).

Denies Welsh Coal Restricted

Senator L. C. Webster Says
Companies Aim to Protect
Canadian Public

Canadian Press

Montreal, July 30.—Senator Lorne C. Webster told the Tory Royal Commission yesterday that since 1933 neither he nor his companies, "through business or social connections," had tried to prevent any competitors from importing Welsh anthracite into Canada.

In testimony delivered before Dr. H. M. T. of Ottawa, at the commission's inquiry into the Canadian anthracite situation, the former president of the Canadian Import Company said there was no agreement, "either written or tacit," with the object of restricting anyone from bringing in Welsh coal.

"In 1933 we were accused of doing something," Senator Webster said. "We were fined; we paid our fine and bowed to the judgment of the courts. We are not to be fined again."

Senator Webster acknowledged the fact his companies were trying to protect the market they built up for Welsh coal. "But we are more particularly trying to protect the Canadian people," he added.

The Canadian Import Company never had charged extravagant profits, he said, and for that reason carried over large supplies at the end of the year. "We want to see the Canadian public protected," the senator said.

Man Jailed For Chaining Sons

Associated Press

Brighton, Colo. July 30.—Roy Hamblin, forty-two-year-old Rocky Mountain Progress Administration worker, was sentenced to sixty days in jail and fined $50 yesterday for chaining his two young sons to a post in the basement of their home. The fine was remitted when the boys were endangered by fire on Tuesday.

The lean, bespectacled father pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to the children and endangering their lives. He told Justice of the Peace Frank P. Coleman he had chained his two-year-old Jimmy and ten-year-old Wayne because they ran away while he and their mother were at work, and "whipping did no good."

As the sentence was imposed on their father, the boys sobbed. "We're sorry, daddy. We're sorry," Hamblin began saying his sentence at once. Sheriff Louis Ballard said he might permit Hamblin to continue his W.P.A. work to provide funds for the family, looking him in jail only at night.

State humane officers discovered the chained boys after a fire had broken out in the basement of the Hamblin home Tuesday. Screams of the two lads attracted Lois, their fourteen-year-old sister, and she beat out the flames with a broom. The parents were at work.

Drought Area Cattle May Soon Be Moved

Canadian Press

Ottawa, July 30.—The livestock situation in western Canada occupied the attention of the cabinet at its weekly meeting yesterday.

At the conclusion of the three-hour sitting, Prime Minister King said consideration was being given to the removal of feeder cattle from drought-stricken areas in the west to places where feed would be available.

He stated, however, no agreements had been reached yet with the western provinces to meet the situation.

PROTECTION OF FOREST URGED

Proper Safeguarding Will Assure Future Supply, Says
R. V. Stuart

British Columbia will never lack for raw material to maintain its great timber industry if its forest lands are adequately protected, R. V. Stuart, secretary-manager of the B.C. Loggers' Association told members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

As the old forests are cut out, Mr. Stuart said, British Columbia's manufactured timber products would be in the form of timber sawn from trees of small dimensions, like the products of the Baltic and other timber countries, or in the form of fabricated and pulped products replacing the sawn board. "The future of our forest industries," he said, "will be absolutely dependent upon our ability to manufacture a forest product saleable in the world market at a competitive price, whether it be in the form of narrow boards or small dimensioned timbers, fabricated boards or timbers taking the place of the sawn article, from trees that will be harvested before they have attained an age of more than fifty or sixty years."

CAN CUT MORE

After quoting figures relating to British Columbia's supply of timber, Mr. Stuart said: "We are justified at least in assuming that we can safely cut approximately 30 per cent more timber than we cut in 1935, and 20 per cent more than the average of the last ten years. Utilizing the smaller trees in the future, no doubt we could cut a great deal more than that."

"We need have no worry as to our future requirements if (and it is a most significant 'if') we insure the protection of our young forests and prevent excessive loss from fire." The protection of the young forests, he continued, was the key to forest conservation, since it was the young forests that increased year by year in size and value, whereas old mature stands of timber actually declined in their lumber output per acre. The timber industry, he stated is a small cause of fire, though it maintains some 12,000 men in the woods. Last year the industry was responsible for only forty fires out of a total of 1,111, or about 4 per cent.

NO FEAR OF STOPPAGE

"In my opinion," he concluded, "we need not have any fear of the stoppage of our forest industries through lack of raw material. Certainly we shall not always have the large-dimension, old-growth timber, and it is more than likely that in a decade or so the bulk of our timber cut will cease to be Douglas fir and other species of which we have such tremendous reserves, hemlock, spruce and cedar, will come into their own. In the distant future we shall cut trees of small dimension, probably a third or a quarter of the age of the growth of our present stands, but changes in manufacturing processes will meet this situation. What we have to do is to prevent the impairment of the productive capacity of our forest lands from fire and other destructive agencies."

Frank Doherty presided and thanked the speaker.

TRIBUTE PAID BY RED CROSS

Honor Late Rt. Rev. C. V.
Schofield at Executive Meeting

At a meeting of the Red Cross Workshop committee held yesterday evening, high tribute was paid to the late Rt. Rev. C. V. Schofield, former Bishop of Columbia.

It was recalled that the late Bishop presided at the meeting held at the Empress Hotel in April, 1915, when the Victoria and District branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was formed. He was an active worker in the cause, and through the war years continued his interest as a member of the provincial executive. He was instrumental in the formation of shops for disabled ex-service men, and had been a valued member of the local workshop since its inception in April, 1921.

The late Bishop Schofield was never too busy to give his time and experience for the benefit of the Red Cross shop. His sound judgment was invaluable. The men of the shop, in whom he took a personal interest, and to whom he gave advice and assistance in many ways, grieve the loss of a friend.

A resolution of profound and sincere sympathy was extended to Mrs. Schofield and family.

Since the hand-shaking custom is a means of transferring germs, an attempt is being made in El Salvador to substitute a salute of lifting the hand.

On the street corners here Saturday the public will be asked to contribute in its usual manner to the funds of the Salvation Army rescue work in the province.

It is not necessary to explain the noble work which the army does, or to eulogize the unselfish manner in which it is being done. Its officers and rank and file the world over have performed a service to humanity the value of which is incalculable. Like all good works, however, the Salvation Army's mission can not be fulfilled without certain monetary assistance. For that reason the army hopes that to-morrow's response will be a substantial one.

RESCUE MADE AT GONZALES

Boys Display Smart Work
When Wave Capsized Row-boat in Bay

Neil Hanson, David Grant and Gladys Sears yesterday afternoon took a forced swim in the icy waters at Gonzales Bay when a wave capsized a twelve-foot rowboat about 200 yards from the rocks.

Robert Mathewson, who saw the boat upset, immediately set out in his boat and picked up Miss Sears and Hanson, who were clinging to the boat, and took them to shore.

David Grant swam through the help to shore to get help. He had a hard job landing on the rocks and received a number of cuts and bruises. On reaching shore he hailed Douglas Whyte, who was close to shore, in a kayak and called to him to go for help. John Rennie and Ernest McAllister in Rennie's boat and Keith Ludbrook and Roger O'Connell in Ormond Griffin's boat brought the capsized craft to shore.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1936

Astrologers read this as an unimportant day in the life of the individual. A benefic aspect gives promise to aviators. The planetary government is strong. To thinkers who now will gain much power as leaders by means of the spoken and the written word. Analysis of financial and economic problems will be effective in revealing voters.

Again the seers repeat their prognostications that there will be surprising results in the fall election. Many who hold high offices will be retained. Southsayers now will gain much power as leaders by means of the spoken and the written word. Analysis of financial and economic problems will be effective in revealing voters.

Warning is repeated that accidents will multiply all through the summer. There is a sign read as threatening to swimmers, hunters and yachtsmen.

This is an auspicious rule of the stars for starting new friendships and is promising to young persons of opposite sex who meet under this configuration.

Love at first sight is predicted as more common than it has been in the past. Hasty marriages will be numerous and should be fairly lucky.

Revelation of old-fashioned handicrafts will interest women who will conform to numerous outmoded customs in their attire. Needlework is to be more and more popular.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of pleasure and change. Journeys will be enjoyed by many. Light-hearted enjoyment is foreseen.

Children born on this day probably will be many-sided in character. Subjects of this sign like adventure, intellectual and artistic pursuits. They are quick and clever in conversation.

Aram Stevens, Hewitt, statesman, was born on this day. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include John Richardson, an actor, and George Randolph Harve Jr., artist, 1881, and George Henry Thomas, general, 1816. (Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

BURNED TO DEATH

Caledonia, N.S., July 30 (Canadian Press).—Walter Hazelet, a factory worker, was burned to death yesterday after his oil-soaked overalls caught fire from a cigarette butt. Enjoying a smoke after lunch, he tapped the cigarette hurriedly and stuffed the still glowing butt into a pocket when the whistle blew. He had taken only a few steps toward the plant when his clothing burst into flames.

Fratricidal Strife

ONE OF THE MOST REVOLTING aspects of civil war is that brother is ranged against brother. General Francisco Franco, leader of the Fascist rebels in Spain, is a brother of Major Ramon Franco, noted flyer, now an attaché of the Spanish Embassy at Washington. The latter, according to the dispatches, repudiates his brother's action in plunging Spain into the horrors of fratricidal strife.

The calamity that has befallen Spain focusses attention upon what seems to be a world-wide process of division, of stratification, among families, among classes within the nations, among the nations themselves.

Probably the roots of this process can be traced to the economic wreckage in the wake of the depression.

In many countries of Europe old political labels have disappeared or have been made to serve as camouflage for two fundamental, opposing categories—that of the "leftists" and that of the "rightists." And the division is accompanied by varying degrees of violence, as in Spain.

The present trend of diplomatic alignments in Europe suggests a similar division among nations as a whole. Fascist Germany's absorption by negotiation of Fascist Austria, with the blessing of Fascist Italy, is a hint of possible common action in future by the three countries which, as "totalitarian" states, represent the extreme of "rightism." Germany, it is rumored, has a secret treaty providing for joint military action with Japan, another nation considered decidedly "rightist" because of the power of her militarists and the meagre degree of democracy vouchsafed her citizenry.

Germany, Italy and Japan have flouted the League—that fine, if frustrated, expression of democracy among nations. Hitler and Mussolini are strident in their scorn of such democratic forms of government as those of Britain, Belgium, France and the United States. Democracy is weak—"leftist," Mussolini would say. Charles A. Selden, London correspondent of The New York Times, writes with regard to the Locarno conversation just concluded between Britain, France and Belgium, that "it is a significant and interesting fact that the phrase, 'the three democratic powers' has now become a fixed expression in international jargon with a meaning as definite as that of 'Little Entente' or any other familiar group name."

Many authorities on world affairs are convinced that this sinister process of division, as between individuals of a country and as between nations, pregnant as it is with the threat of violence, will not end until the world repudiates economic nationalism and the unimpeded flow of commerce restores the nations to full economic health.

It Should Not Be Disturbed

THE SUGGESTION THAT THE moving picture industry which has been operating so successfully at the Willows should have to dismantle its equipment for the Fall Fair is too grotesque for words.

Admittedly, the Fall Fair is useful in many ways, and this newspaper has always meted out genuine praise for the showmanship which such an annual event represents. But there now is involved a local industry, which has not gone hand in hand either to municipal or provincial governments, but which has paid out in its purchases of local wares, in payments in shape of salaries, many thousands of dollars.

If Central Films Limited is forced to vacate its premises for an event which is popularized mainly for horse racing, it will be the crowning folly of municipal government in this community.

The Old Story

YESTERDAY, IN LONDON, Canadian veterans heard Prime Minister Baldwin say that if no better means than war can be found to settle disputes, "the world deserves to perish." Mr. Baldwin is quite right. He is inherently a man of peace. He knows his Worcestershire countryside where he can chat with the farm worker and give him "good neighborhood."

A week or so ago, however, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain was telling the British public that Germany's remorseless hammers "are descending day and night" in the job of welding a tremendous fighting machine, "equipped with the most fearful agencies of modern science." While Mr. Chamberlain did suggest that he did not ask that war conditions should be established for the production of munitions, he said that "the whole spirit and atmosphere of our rearmament should be raised to a higher pitch and that we should lay aside a good deal of the comfort and smoothness of our ordinary life in the face of the ever-growing dangers that gather around us."

The world is up against the same old story that to preserve peace it is much better to be prepared for war. How will the nations equipped with the most "fearful agencies of modern science" prevent war? Does Britain, for example, admit that she is behind Germany or any other nation in this state of preparedness to ward off war?

One of these days, of course, governments did in parts which filch the taxes from the wage-earners to provide money for armaments will get a real lesson in political economy. It will be hard for them to take. But they will have to take it, or, to use a colloquialism, "else."

Machines and Jobs

DO MACHINES CREATE UNEMPLOYMENT or do they create jobs? A survey of the relationship between machines and unemployment has been completed by the Machinery and Allied Products Institute. Its findings, summarized by Canadian Machinery, bring forward facts for the consideration of persons technocratically inclined.

Between 1870 and 1930, the summary says, the population of the United States increased 218 per cent, while the gainfully employed increased 291 per cent. Shortly after the civil war, before the great stride in technological advancement had been made, 324 persons were employed in producing the goods and services for each 1,000 inhabitants. By 1930 a higher standard of living, resulting largely from the development of machinery, had created so many new desires that 400 persons were at work filling the demands of each 1,000.

There was a gain of 20,000,000 new jobs during the period of most intensive technological advancement, 1900 to 1930. For each 1,000 of the 47,000,000 added population, 422 new jobs were created in this period of twentieth century development.

It is reassuring to have such facts in these days when, from the evidence which crowds in on us from every side, technological progress is proceeding at a faster rate than ever.

Hoarding Her Best Foods

APPARENTLY GERMANY'S much-heralded hope of partial resuscitation of her finances through expenditures of visitors to the Olympic Games is another case of wishful thinking.

The Berlin Chamber of Commerce and The German Economist, considered the mouthpiece of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Economics Minister, join in a dismal warning to German business generally to curb its optimism.

A Berlin dispatch to The New York Times gives the following reason:

"Most of the Olympic visitors will live here on registered marks or travel marks sold to them at a discount by Germany's foreign creditors who thereby pocket the loss themselves but retrieve some of their money that otherwise would be frozen here."

"The expenditures in travel marks will reduce Germany's foreign indebtedness, but will not produce what Germany needs most at this time, foreign exchange. Contrarily, Germany will have to pay out foreign exchange to provide additional food from abroad for the visitors and to provide foreign raw materials for the manufacture of articles for which the visitors will pay in marks."

"To cut down this additional demand for foreign exchange Germany recently has been hoarding her best food, compelling her own people and the foreigners now here to eat poorer qualities."

It is apropos, perhaps, to wonder how long a country so beset by economic woes that she must "hoard her best food," to impress visitors can sustain the burden of billions for new implements of warfare.

Crux of Locarno Problem

GERMANY, ECONOMISTS POINT out, is in dire economic straits. High adverse tariffs, lack of foreign exchange (she is already reduced to a system of barter with Danubian and middle-European states), lack of vital raw materials and the practical cessation of foreign credits have so strangled her economic processes as to justify the inference that Hitler's lavish war appropriations soon must dwindle to a full stop.

But the suspicion is that before that moment arrives Herr Hitler will have followed the example of all dictators of history. He will have put his new war machine to work at the business for which, specifically, it is being created.

This is the crux of the problem confronting statesmen in the current Locarno conversations.

Notes

Perhaps the invention that has done most to lighten man's burdens is the alibi.

Then again, there is the old master, Macdonald Smith, the greatest stylist of the invading visitors; he said (his Scotch is beyond us) "I had a fine time, and I shall be coming back."

Said Horton Smith yesterday: "What a place to live in!" "Yes," said the man who was listening to his remarks, "and what a nice place to have Premier Pattullo hand you seven hundred 'bucks'!" "There's something in that," said Horton.

Mr. H. R. MacMillan, B.C. lumber exporter back from England, says informed circles in the Old Country anticipate that when Premier Mackenzie King goes to London his proposal will be that any revision in the Ottawa trade agreements will not be in the direction of increased tariffs against other countries. This, it is believed, is a policy in which the British representatives are likely to concur most heartily. It is expected that Canada will also recognize the dissatisfaction with certain features of the Ottawa agreements, particularly with respect to the textile tariff and the valuation of goods for duty purposes. Altogether, the London meeting gives promise of proceeding more amicably than the Ottawa meeting under Mr. Bennett

Loose Ends

Dr. Butler proclaims the obvious—a nature lover explains—we have to eat, but how long can we—on a bond broker floats—and George forgets his promise.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

IN 1937

DR. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, president of Columbia University and one of the United States' best Tories (who certainly cannot be accused of radicalism), is back from Europe with predictions of a tremendous financial collapse, probably next year. By that time, he thinks, the European governments will have reached the limit of their borrowing powers and, as they are financing a great part of their current expenses out of borrowings, this will mean one of two things—a cutting down of expense, particularly on military preparations, or a repudiation of debt either direct or through currency inflation.

Obviously, the financial derelish dance in Europe now under way can't go on indefinitely. The only question is when it will crash. No one knows exactly, any more than any one knew when the 1929 crash would come. But so long as government is financed by borrowings, including the governments of Canada, British Columbia and Victoria, there can be no permanent stability.

For the moment it would seem that this continent could go on borrowing for a long time yet because, like a bear, it has a lot of fat on its financial carcass to live on; but if Europe refuses to change its life and reaches the end of its borrowing powers in 1937, and goes into a crash, with demoralized currencies, our borrowing powers here won't save us. Such a crash will affect every nation in the world; particularly Canada, which has built most of its economy on exports and the returns for these.

All this has been apparent to anyone who can work simple decimals for a long time, but no one will believe it unless some good old Tory like Dr. Butler points it out. Then the public is inclined to believe that there must be something in the theory that two and two added together make four. So long as such theories are uttered by radicals, they are immediately suspected of being tinged with Red Bolshevism.

NATURE LOVER

A GENTLEMAN from California was taking moving pictures on the Malahat yesterday with one of these little amateur movie cameras. I fell into conversation with him beside the road and his views on touring seemed to offer an index to the mind of his interesting and lucrative species.

"Well you see," said he, "I'm very fond of scenery. You know, some fellows like fishing, or golf or drinking beer. Me, I like scenery. It does something to me in here. (He pointed to his ample waistline.) You know, it gives you a lift, like a good shot of Scotch. Well, driving 400 miles or so every day, you don't get any time to look at scenery, do you? Not if you're at the wheel. So I never see any except when I stop and take a picture of it. Sometimes, I get the wife to drive and then I take pictures as we go."

"Well then, when I get home, I've got no recollection of anything I've seen. It's all just a blur because it passes so fast. But I just get my films developed and turn them on in the living-room with a few friends and maybe a few drinks and there you are—the whole thing complete, just as good as the original. Better, because you can sit back with a drink and a cigar and enjoy it. You can't enjoy it while you're driving 400 miles a day. No, this is just work. But we sure get our reward when we get home and get the films developed. I suppose it's because the wife and I, we both love nature. Some fellows like fishing, or golf, or the movies, but nature for ours. Why, I've taken 3,000 feet so far this trip."

WE HAVE TO EAT

SUCH PASSAGES as this one, from the report of the National Resources Committee of the United States, are generally overlooked, and no one will pay any attention to them anyway:

"The fact is that most of the territory occupied by the United States is not naturally suited for a permanent civilization. It is like the land of the Mayas of Yucatan, or the land of the Aztecs of Mexico, where civilization can flash into a blaze of glory and then collapse in a few generations into ruin. Our soil is not enriched by the usual methods of cultivation, but impoverished. By the normal processes of our farming, our mining and our lumbering, we create a desert. Americans need to realize that all other hopes and aspirations are secondary to the question whether we can continue to eat. Any nation whose land naturally tends to turn into desert must either take measures to preserve the land or it will die."

This could be written also of the great central plain of Canada, which is geographically part of the United States "dust bowl." It is an arresting thought which will hardly arrest anyone because we are too busy making a living these days to be arrested by anyone but a speed cop. If there is any moral law in the universe, or any survival of the fittest, certainly this continent will deserve to come to the day when it can't eat, for in the days of plenty it was too stupid and too selfish to distribute the vast surplus to those who were hungry.

FLOATER

A SUCCESSFUL young broker nearby likes to float by the hour in our lake, not moving a finger, just lying there, a compact round bundle of white flesh, like a man long drowned, his eyes turned to the sky.

"Well," he explained, when I asked him today, "lying there in the water, away with every little wave, you feel as if you were already dead and gone to heaven. I mean you are part of the lake, like the water itself. You are like the little white clouds up above, just floating there, part of the universe. It makes you believe in God. Why, floating there like the clouds you begin to think after a while that stocks and bonds and exchange rates aren't very important compared with the universe after all."

Then he comes ashore, dresses and dashes to town early in the morning to see how the New York market is behaving. That floating feeling, unfortunately, doesn't last long.

PROMISE

ON THE ROAD beside our lake, where we walk to get the milk in the evening, we found a curious document nailed to a fir tree. It was a piece of cardboard about a foot square and scrawled upon it so large that he who drives a car may read, were the words: "George: Have you forgotten your promise?" It was a lady's handwriting. On the other side of the cardboard was printed an advertisement for a dance which the local Elks are going to give in Duncan during the next few days.

We are all agog at our lake to know the meaning of this curious communication. Has George forgotten his promise? Is George faithless? Has he betrayed the lady by failing to take her to the dance, or is it something more serious? The distressing thing is that probably we shall never know. The faithlessness of George, thus publicly displayed on the highway, before the whole world, may go forever unpunished. I think George should be arrested and put in prison for a year.

That Timber Deal

Sale of Sooke Lake Watershed Poles and Piling at Third or Less Current Market Prices Is Questioned

To the Editor:—
Re Sale of Cedar Pole and Piling and Timber on Sooke Lake Watershed, Comprising Over 13,000 Acres

I am a resident and taxpayer and have an interest in the City of Victoria. I have been in the logging business here for over twenty-nine years. When I saw a small news item in the paper some time ago, that the city was investigating the sale of the timber on the Sooke Lake Watershed by selective logging method, I called on the mayor and some members of the City Council and told them I was opposed to the logging on the watershed under any system, and I am still of the same opinion for several reasons, chief of which is the conservation of the water supply and its purity. There are no snow-capped mountains to hold the water, only the floor of the forest. I was assured by the mayor that I would be notified of any meetings dealing with this subject, but I received no notice of any meeting.

Regarding price received for cedar poles and cedar piling and/or fir piling: The value of cedar poles and piling is based on the cost of getting it to market. If one man has a tract of timber far removed from railroad, and it will cost 5 cents per foot to get it to the car, while another man has a tract of land from which the poles can be put on the cars for 2 cents per lineal foot, naturally the poles on the latter tract are worth 3 cents per foot more than the poles from the first tract. Follow the C.N.R. runs through this 13,000-acre tract, the poles and piling are the most accessible to railway on Vancouver Island. I defy anyone to point out another tract of land so situated on Vancouver Island, either on the E. & N. Railway or the C.N.R. This is why the poles and piling on the watershed are worth more than one cent per lineal foot. I gave the mayor and members of the water board my knowledge as to values on Friday, July 24, before they recommended the sale to the City Council. I told them frankly I had been offered cedar poles off Block 169, comprising 1,000 acres, located within a mile of the Sooke Lake Watershed and on the Canadian National Railway, to the Federal Lumber Co. Ltd., at 8 cents per lineal foot, same to be removed in two years, and they are not permitted to operate in the next season of the year when fire danger is greatest.

I also told them I was recovering 4½ cents per lineal foot out of cedar piling and fir piling. With this information before them, I can hardly understand the rush to sell the cedar poles at 1 cent per lineal foot and the piling at 1½ cents per lineal foot. Can you imagine anyone of the gentlemen if he owned 13,000 acres of timber land, selling the poles off same at 1 cent per lineal foot if his next-door neighbor had just sold his poles at 3 cents per lineal foot?

I have been asked why I did not tender. The reason, I explained to the water board, under the plan offered by the city and the conditions therein so uncertain and ambiguous, and being responsible, I did not care to undertake tendering.

D. O. CAMERON.

JUST ANOTHER DESPONDENT MOTHER

To the Editor:—Having read Despondent Mother's letter, I can sympathize with her. I am a mother with four small children, one recently left the hospital. I am trying to do justice to them, but it seems impossible. I am on direct relief, with no other means of existence. I have had to struggle along alone for three years now, and it is no joke bringing up a family on relief when you are alone.

Darwin on Stamps of Ecuador

Guayaquil, Ecuador.

Charles Darwin, who launched the doctrine of evolution on its world-shaking career, has been commemorated by the government of Ecuador with a special series of stamps, marking the 100th anniversary of his visit to the Galapagos Islands. It was while he was studying the strange animal and plant forms of this isolated group of volcanic islands, directly west of Ecuador and straight south from Panama, that Darwin, then only twenty-six years old, got the germ of his famous idea, also known as the theory of evolution.

A carload of potatoes grown on the lake front in Colchester was shipped out of Windsor and was in Montreal at 11 o'clock next night, where they were all sold at 8 o'clock the following morning. There were 348 bags in the consignment. They were all graded No. 1—inch and seven-eighths up in size—and the grower was paid $3.25 per bag at the farm. Early the other morning there were eleven trucks at the farm in search of "spuds." This grower has fifty acres of potatoes which are turning out 150 bags to the acre.

"FLOCK OF BATS"

From a London Correspondent
Captain Richard Edwards is the author of the latest "Spoonerism." He committed it while addressing the Unionist canvassing corps meeting in London.

Referring to an interview he had with a porter at a block of flats, Captain Edwards said . . . "and the porter at the block of flats."

The rest of the sentence was drowned in the applause of his delighted audience.

THE DIVINE MUSE

From The Brantford Expositor

Robert W. Service, who made fame and fortune with "Songs of a Sourdough" and other books, has lived in Europe since leaving Canada. Now he announces that in spite of his "profound aversion to work" he hopes in the fall to publish "Bath-tub Ballads." This is quoted as a sample chorus:

Please, Mother, don't stab Father with the bread knife;
Remember 'twas a gift when you were wed.
But if you must stab Father with the bread knife,
Please, Mother, use another for the bread.

Who says that the divine muse has perished?

THE COMING FATE

From The Kingston Whig-Standard

A colored preacher in Toronto points out that a number of the actors who took parts in "Green Pastures" have died and he draws the conclusion that God struck them down because they mocked Him. It might be pointed out, however, that a large number of preachers have died in the same period.

Answer: The Criminal Code provides that it is an offence to use a trademark so nearly resembling that belonging to another as to be calculated to deceive.

Question: What is the law regarding the use of a trademark?

Answer: The law regarding the use of a trademark is governed by the Trade-Mark Act, which provides that a trademark is a mark used by a trader to distinguish his goods from those of others.

Parksville Sees Many Vacationists This Year

Parksville, a delightful little village, just twenty-three miles north of Nanaimo, on the Island Highway, is experiencing the greatest tourist and holiday season in its history. Every day sees more vacationists hastening to this summer colony, the beach is alive with bathers, the sun shines and everyone is happy.

Chief among Parksville's many delights is the many acres of sandy beaches it possesses. The tide, rippling in over the shoals, warms the water to perfect temperature for bathing and swimming, and receding, leaves many shallow pools where children may play in safety from morn 'til night while their parents rest and relax.

During the past two years Parksville has also made no small bid for part of Vancouver Island's fishing honors. This season fishermen from California, Oregon, Washington and many points of British Columbia have already tried their luck. Vancouver has carried off the honors to date. Major D. S. Wright of that city landed a forty-five-pounder recently. W. Armstrong also landed a twenty-five-pound spring gn rod and line. Making Parksville his headquarters for fishing in nearby trout waters, Murray Shelly, also of Vancouver, has just returned with a number of fine trout catches. And E. Bunt has landed several spring, weighing around the twenty-five-pound mark.

SUMMER COTTAGES

If it's a summer cottage one wishes for a week, a month or longer, Mr. R. Gill has a neat little acreage along the shore, where he builds fine summer cottages. He also has boats for hire . . . and he understands the many needs of campers and fishermen alike. Mr. Gill's cottages are on the very edge of the village, right in the centre of everything.

Mr. E. Kingsley, the genial proprietor of a modern Parksville store, also has a number of available summer cottages. Mr. Kingsley is a fund of information regarding the surrounding lakes, rivers, and countryside, and he is never too busy to help the visiting tourist and vacation seeker.

And for the beauty of a vacation spent amid perfect surroundings, in the quiet and peace of private grounds, there is "Stella Maria." The beauty of its name gives one an idea of its charm. Here is a lovely country home in a rustic setting of tall, swaying trees and rambling flower beds of old-fashioned posies. Capt. J. Cox has made "Stella Maria" a hobby. Down the slope from the house, and toward the sea, he has fashioned a few rustic cabins. Summer places where one may live close to the sea, and do just as one wishes. The cabins are furnished and complete with the finest modern sanitation. Here, indeed, is a spot where tired mothers may rest. For there is a quiet garden, with seats scattered

Cowichan Bay Is A Busy Community

Cowichan Bay is just an hour and a half motor drive from Victoria over the most spectacular part of the Island Highway, the beautiful Malahat Drive.

The bay is the centre of a sportsman's paradise. The Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers, both of which enter the bay, and Cowichan Lake, thirty miles away, are justly famous for their trout fishing. In the fall good sport is provided by grouse, pheasants and ducks, while deer are particularly plentiful in the surrounding country. The big salmon runs in Cowichan Bay itself continue from July to the end of November.

BUENA VISTA HOTEL

Visitors to Cowichan Bay find modern and up-to-date accommodation at the Buena Vista. A quiet seaside inn overlooking a magnificent panorama of bays and mountains. From here all the scenic beauties and historic sites of the Cowichan Valley are within easy reach.

Buena Vista is now under new management and has been remodelled, refurnished and redecorated inside and out. The spacious lounge and reception rooms contain comfortable chairs and couches. The bedrooms are dainty and restful and from all windows extensive views of the bay and Mount Tsohalem can be enjoyed. The hotel has its own boat-house and float, and boats, launches and motor cars are for hire.

Mr. Fred Saunders, the genial proprietor of the Buena Vista, is organizing a very sporty fishing contest for his guests, during the months of July, August and September. He will give a big silver challenge cup to the lucky person who catches the heaviest salmon during that period of time.

Cowichan Bay is a splendid summer resort. It has fine facilities for yachting, motor-boating and bathing, as well as some of the sportiest fishing on the island. Safe anchorage and good landings for boats are available at all times of the year.

One of the Biggest Babies In the World

Tipping the scales at seventeen pounds and twelve ounces at birth, the infant son of Mrs. Isaac Flinnmore, thirty-five-year-old wife of an Andover, New Brunswick, farmer, took rank among the heaviest babies of modern times. Pictured beside his mother, the baby measures twenty-four inches long and eighteen inches around the chest. Dr. Aden Macintosh certified the birthweight. Although nearly three pounds less than the largest newborn baby so far recorded, it is nearly ten pounds heavier than the average.

Polly Moran And Mate Reconciled

Beverly Hills, Cal., July 30.—All the shooting is over between Polly Moran, movie comedienne, and her athletic young husband, Martin Malone, she said today. Two weeks ago she accused him of pressing an automatic pistol against her head and pulling the trigger.

The gun jammed, police said. Malone found himself facing a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Polly then announced she would get a divorce.

Women Fighters Join Spain's Army

Canadian Press from Havana Madrid, July 30.—Formation of a loyalist women's battalion, similar to the Russian "Battalion of Death" which fought in the Great War, was under way here today. The chief command is in the hands of men.

Paris Shows Short And Tight Skirts

Paris, July 30.—Short, tight skirts and high waist-lines startled stylists viewing Marcel Rochas's collection at a fashion show yesterday. Francois Villon inspired rashes hate and jagged points on some costumes. Sensational quilled hats were copied from the headdress of North American Indians.

Presages Hollywood Bridal

Allen Jones, former opera singer who rose meteorically in motion pictures, was too busy taking tests for a new screen role to appear at the Los Angeles county license bureau with pretty Irene Hervey, screen actress and bride-to-be. So Miss Hervey appeared alone, filed a notice of intention to wed and sent it around to Jones's studio, where he signed it. The happy pair are shown above, out for a stroll.

Stuffing Skunks Caused Divorce

Canadian Press
Wichita, Kas., July 30.—Mrs. Margaret L. Jones told District Judge Robert Wessmuth she met the demands of matrimony until her husband, William J. Jones, set her to a new task—stuffing skunks. That, she said, was too much and she wanted a divorce. She got it.

Saskatchewan Picnic Success

While its sponsors originally expected about fifty to attend, the first picnic arranged for former and present residents of Saskatchewan assumed large proportions, over 300 attending the very successful affair held in Mount Douglas Park yesterday afternoon.

Ideal weather favored the occasion and enhanced the beauty of the setting. Old friends recalled their varied experiences on the prairies during past years and there were many newly formed friendships.

A dainty supper was served on tables under the trees, and Rev. J. W. Churchill, a former pastor of Saskatoon, acted as master of ceremonies.

It was unanimously decided to make the picnic an annual event, and the following officers were chosen: President, E. E. Colbeck; secretary-treasurer, W. L. Smith; committee, Mrs. J. T. McFrick, Mrs. A. E. Johnson, Mrs. W. L. Smith, Sheriff Ridington and Frank Greenway.

St. Paul's Young Women's Auxiliary—The Young Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church met on Tuesday evening in the church hall. The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. D. Stewart. Miss J. McGowan gave a very interesting account of mission work in Canada under the Women's Missionary Society. Arrangements were made for a supper picnic to be held on Thursday evening, August 6, at 6 o'clock in the Japanese tea gardens. A pleasant social time was spent at the close of the meeting.

King Attended Garden Fete To Vimy Pilgrims

8,000 Canadians Addressed
By His Majesty at Buckingham Palace Yesterday

Canadian Press
London, July 30.—Thrilled by an unexpected address by the King at the garden party of the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester at Buckingham Palace, 2,000 Canadian Vimy pilgrims left for Scotland today, while others planned to visit scenes in England and France familiar to soldiers in the Great War years.

The group going to Scotland will attend ceremonies at Edinburgh and will also visit Earl Haig's tomb at Dryburgh.

KING SPEAKS

The King's arrival on the palace lawns called forth a spontaneous exhibition of personal affection such as has never before been witnessed in the historic grounds.

"None of whom were present at the wonderful ceremony at Vimy on Sunday can ever possibly forget it," he told the 8,000 Canadians.

"For me personally any recollections will always be very vivid, because it brought me into contact again with so many Canadians. It brought back memories to me, not only of the Canadian corps during the war, but also of my four visits to the Dominion."

STORM OF APPLAUSE

As the King finished, there was another storm of applause. Someone started "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," 8,000 voices taking up the refrain.

His Majesty's presence was not expected at the party, and when he did appear, striding across the lawn, hatless and in a grey lounge suit, it was the signal for a minor stampede.

He almost disappeared amid a mob of green berets and assorted feminine headgear. Attendees had to force a way for him through the cheering crowd of enthusiastic Canadians. He, however, seemed delighted with his reception and was smiling broadly as he joined the Duke and Duchess in the royal enclosure.

BERETS AND MEDALS

There surely never previously was such a gathering on the widespread lawns of the palace. The reception was a repetition in miniature of that at Vimy.

Not one man in a hundred was without the beret and button of the Canadian pilgrimage, with, in most instances, the additional adornment of a row of medals on his civilian lapel.

And the womenfolk; they were attired as if the Duke and Duchess had said to each personally: "Come just as you are. No fuss or feathers, mind." And they did. Everybody was thoroughly at his or her ease.

ATTEND DUCHESS

The Duchess, in delicate grey, was attended, among others, by Mrs. Vincent Massey and Mrs. G. P. Vanier; the Duke's entourage included Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, and Lieutenant-Colonel G. P. Vanier, secretary to the high commissioner's office.

Also in attendance on their Royal

Highnesses were Lady Patricia Ramsey, Lady Winifred Cecil, the Earl of Cromer and Major Ronald Stanforth.

Slowly the Duke and Duchess made progress toward the royal enclosure, after which most of the company went to the long tea tents for refreshment.

All arrangements were almost identical with those ruling at full-dress garden parties in the previous reign.

The band of the Welsh Guards provided the music. These and a Canadian Highlanders' band, which, however, did not play, together with a few British Guardsmen, were the only men in uniform on the lawns.

Piano Pupils Are Heard in Recital

A number of the private pupils of Miss Helen Riley, A.T.C.M., were heard in an interesting pianoforte recital given before an appreciative audience of parents and friends in the Y.W.C.A. on Monday evening. All of the performers gave evidence of much progress having been made in their musical studies during the past year, several showing marked ability and real talent.

The programme follows:

March, "O Canada," Vincent Paoine; "March in G," Richard Rowe; "Wood-nymphs' Frolic" (Dutton), Aileen Trounson; "Arpeggio Etude" (Cerny), Frances Kerry; "Valse" (Grieg), Maud Renouf; "Grand March" (Blake), Jack Rowe; "L'Hirolle" (Burg-muller), Roberta Cooper; "Melody in F" (Rubenstein), Betty Millins; "Mazurka" (Chopin), Jan. Dobbs; "Polish Dance" (Schubert), Lillian Leacock; "Valse" (Levitaki), Frances Liffon; "Prelude" (Rachmaninoff), Lorne Aitkens; "A Sea Song" (Dunhill), Richard Rowe; "March" (Aileen Trounson); "Minuet in G" (Boccherini), Frances Kerry; "Humoreske" (Dvorak), Maud Renouf; "Nocturne" (Chopin), Jack Rowe; "Le Secret" (Gautier), Roberta Cooper; "Sonata" (Mozart), Vincent Paoine; "Country Gardens" (Grainger), Betty Millins; "Minuet in G" (Schumann), Janet Dobbs; "Invention" (Bach), Frances Liffon; piano duet, "Polonaise" (Chopin), Lorne Aitkens and Miss Riley.

Clever interpretations of the Highland Fling and Sailor's Hornpipe dances given by Deloris Grant added much to the pleasure of the evening.

CHAPTER I

The day was gloriously hot. As far as the eye could see baby white clouds scudded across a sky deeply blue. The houses along the shaded streets of Larchneck were picked out in glare and shadow, glare and shadow. Like toy houses cut out of Bristol board and posed against a backdrop in a theatre set. Like a girl strutting upon a stage, too, Boots Raeburn seemed as, dazzlingly white from her tennis dress to her low-heeled shoes, she came out of the door of No. 86 Poppy Lane and dangled gracefully toward a roadster waiting under the drooping maple tree so slightly to the right of the shock-headed boy as she passed.

"How's tricks, Boots?"

"Well, Dinty, you?"

"O.K." Dinty Adrian had gone to school with Boots. The Adrians were old Larchnecks, had no money but were asked every place. Larchneck was like that. Some of the snootiest newcomers couldn't make the grade, Boots reflected, and others, like the Rivers, barged right in and swept everything before them.

The water was blue, and far out, against the clear black outline of the Long Island shore, there was a red sail in the fleet of white ones. Hardy Whitmore's boat. Boots stared at it reflectively. Hardy, with his correct English voice, his good-looking clothes, his talk of Yale and trips abroad. Hardy was in his second year at college now. He had everything, the girls of Larchneck said—money, looks, position. He could dance. He had a "mean line." Boots had died rather than admit it, but five years now she had cherished a secret passion for Hardy. He had, surprisingly enough, attended Larchneck High when everyone expected him to go to Choate or Hotchkiss. He had been in the class ahead of hers, and she had worshipped him from afar. But years now she had summered at home, and she had seen him at several parties. . . and, while he hadn't singled her out for any special attention, she had danced with him once or twice. And last night she had been in a crowd which had been drawn home from Henry's, the hot-dog man's, in Hardy's big car. Hardy had grinned at her, had asked her "how she was coming." Boots treasured the grin and the words. . .

The crowd, lazily on the sand, made way for her. She slumped down.

"I'm not parking here, fellows. I'm plunging right in."

They were all there—nearly all. Isabel Hathway, with her tight red curls and her dazzling, irregular teeth, Patty Winsted, Jim Eberman, Laddie Rudd. . . Hardy, of course, was out on the boat. . .

Patty flung back a long, insolent chestnut mane and stared up at Boots. Patty was tall, well formed. Without beauty of any kind save her thick, luxuriant hair, Patty still had the manner, the assurance and poise of a great beauty. Patty's legs were too long, her mouth too large, her nose too prominent; her voice was not even pleasant. Yet it was Patty who was the leader of any group she belonged to, for the moment. Boots was not overly fond of her, yet it was polite to be "on the good side" of Patty. She was an enemy to be feared.

"What's chewin' you?" Patty now wanted to know. "Nobody's out on the float but the kids. Stick around." Patty's dark eyes followed Boots in the direction of the red sail. She smiled knowingly.

"Hardy," she said, lightly and with apparent irrelevance, "is steerin' the Duchess around today."

Sylvia was known in the Larchneck younger set as "The Duchess."

"No kidding?" Laddie Rudd, chewing gum, rolled over on his back and stared up at the sky. "Romance, I call it."

Isabel giggled. Boots seemed not to have heard.

"Any of you sand lizards coming in the water?" She hated Patty for what she had just said. Patty had seen Hardy's look at her last night, and she resented anyone else receiving attention of any kind, especially from Hardy.

Popular Horton Smith Wins Victoria Open Golf Tournament

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETER SALLAWAY

BALL PLAYERS of today may have just as much natural ability as those of twenty years ago, but they don't play the game up to the hilt. The age of hustling seems to have passed.

"When I was managing in the minor leagues, I used to tell the boys that if they didn't run out batted balls, or if they missed a hit and run signal, they never would be accepted in the big show," says Del Baker, who managed the Detroit Tigers during Mickey Cochrane's absence.

"They won't tolerate that kind of stuff up there," I told them. I believed that I knew what I was talking about because I remembered having seen players fined, reprimanded and released for missing a signal or loafing on the way to first.

"You can imagine my surprise when I came back as a coach in 1932, to see how lax big leaguers had become. Now they miss signals every day and do all manner of loafing without anything being said about it. It's all taken as part of the game."

Baker also finds a difference in fielding alertness between 1915, when he caught for the Tigers, and the sluggish and oftentimes borsome present.

"I recall seeing a play at Fenway Park, Boston, that never happens any more," asserts the Oregon farmer who is expected to permanently succeed the incapacitated Cochrane as field marshal of the Navin Field forces in 1937.

"Oscar Vitt, then playing third base for the Tigers, was on second with Ty Cobb at bat. Ty faked a bunt to draw in Larry Gardner, the Red Sox third baseman, and make it easier for Vitt to steal."

"Forest Cady was catching for Boston. He started to throw, but when he saw that third was uncovered, he tried to hold the ball. It slipped out of his hand and carried into left field. Vitt, of course, tried to score, but Duffy Lewis, playing left field, picked up the ball and threw him out at the plate."

"In those days outfielders backed up every play. Now, partly because of the lively ball and partly because of laziness, they lay back and let base runners go to town."

Charley Dessen, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, agrees with Baker. "Ball players are base hit crazy today," declares Dessen. "All most of them think of is their batting average. If the average player hits 300 or more, he has had a good year in his own estimation. That is all he talks to you about. He conveniently overlooks fumbles, poor throws and other errors."

With major league material as scarce as it is, managers can do little to change the attitude of the athletes. Yearly it becomes more evident that the prime requisite of a field leader is his ability to baby his stars. Joe Cronin's problem with the collection of high-salaried temperamental assemblage by Eddie Collins in Boston is a concrete example.

"They're still trying to get that important money," explains Cronin, in discussing the surprising showings of the Washington Senators and the Chicago White Sox this season. Generally speaking, ball players and fighters are alike. They're best when "hungry." That, no doubt, is why Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey keep the St. Louis Cardinals that way.

SOCCER CLUBS PLAY TO DRAW

No Score in Dominion Cup Match Between Winnipeg and Falconbridge

Winnipeg, July 30.—Light limbering-up exercises were on the board for Falconbridge Falcons today. The eastern soccer champions took advantage of a one-day rest to prepare themselves for the second of their best-of-three-game semi-final series with United Weston here tomorrow for the right to challenge New Westminster Royals in the Dominion final.

Falcons, noticeably tired from their long train journey, played a scoreless tie with the Manitoba champions here yesterday evening. The game was packed with thrills, however, and only superb net-minding prevented either side from scoring on occasions. The easterners took the field minus "Red" Earley, star forward responsible for the major points in their eastern Canada series. Jimmy Wallace, in the Falcon nets, and Jimmy Howarth on the forward line, however, proved a team in themselves. Wallace turned aside repeated thrusts as the teams played at top speed throughout the ninety minutes. The Lone Brothers were conspicuous in raids on the Weston net that taxed the agility of Billy Reid, Winnipeg goalkeeper.

CORBETT IS AFTER BOUT

Fresno Welterweight, Making Comeback, Wants to Fight McLarnin

San Francisco, July 30.—Efforts will be made to match Young Corbett and Jimmy McLarnin for an outdoor fight here in September, officials of the San Francisco Press Club said today.

Negotiations will be started if Corbett defeats Mike Bazzano, tough Pittsburgh, Pa., middleweight, in their ten-round fracas here tomorrow night.

Corbett, staging a comeback after announced retirement, is anxious for a crack at McLarnin, who knocked out the Fresno fighter in the first round in Los Angeles three years ago shortly after Corbett won the welterweight championship.

Has Final Rounds of 72-68 at Oak Bay; Byron Nelson Is Second

PHIL TAYLOR IN THE MONEY

Second pot of gold in the Pacific Northwest "Evergreen Golf Trail" went to Horton Smith, popular professional from Chicago, yesterday afternoon at the Victoria Golf Club when he led the classy field home in the $3,000 Victoria open tournament with a seventy-two-hole score of 269. Smith's three-under-par performance was worth $700.

In second place with 272 was Byron Nelson, Ridgewood, N.J. pro. His reward was $450. Third money of $350 went to Ted Longworth, Portland, with a score of 276. Other leaders and their winnings follow: C. Sheppard, Los Angeles, 277, $250; Neil Christian, Yakima, 277, $250; Don Zimmarman, Vancouver, 278, $180; A. Zimmarman, Portland, 279, $150; E. Zimmarman, Portland, 279, $150; Phil Taylor, Victoria, 280, $103; Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis, 280, $103; MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn., 280, $103; Jimmy Hines, Garden City, L.I., 281, $70; C. Dwyer, Rochester, N.Y., 281, $70 and Lawson Little, San Francisco, 281, $70.

At the conclusion of play the prizes were presented by Premier T. D. Pattullo.

BLACK BEST AMATEUR
Firing a brilliant 67 on the final eighteen Kenny Black, Vancouver, winner of the $5,000 open event on his home course last week, lifted the amateur honors for the Victoria tournament with a score of 282. He was out 32, one under par, and back in 35, even par. On the morning round he had a 71. Johnny Dawson, Chicago, who topped the amateurs at the halfway mark on Tuesday, fell away badly yesterday with rounds of 70-72 for a total of 288.

Horton Smith's victory was a crowd pleaser. Of the large contingent of visiting United States professionals for the tournament the former "Top Gun" was one of the big favorites with the gallery. A quiet, soft-spoken chap he cut loose with some fine golf during the three-day event. His four winning rounds were: 64-65-72-68.

At the end of fifty-four holes yesterday Smith and Nelson were deadlocked for first place, with scores of 201. Smith had a 72 in the morning and Nelson a 69 to wash out the three-stroke lead Horton held at the end of Tuesday's play. Emory Zimmerman, Portland, was in third place with 204. He shot a 70 yesterday morning.

At the afternoon round Nelson was the first of the co-leaders to tee off. On the first nine the New Jersey player went one over par with a 34. He took a 4 on the par 3 seventh, shooting all the others in perfect figures. On the incoming route he again found it tough to keep up with par and went two over for a 37 and a 71. He was over perfect, figures at the fifteenth and seventeenth holes, getting 55.

Smith, who had the gallery inform him of Nelson's scoring, kept close to par on the first nine, finishing with a 34, for one over. At that point he was still tied with Nelson. In the homecoming journey the Chicago player got pars at the tenth and eleventh, and then got even with par by snaring a birdie 4 on the twelfth. With the knowledge that a par 68 would cinch him first place, Smith got down to serious golf and ran out six straight pars for first money.

JUST MISSES DODO
The feature of Smith's final round was his birdie 2 at the ninth. His tee shot finished six feet from the cup and for a few seconds the large gallery figured he was going to get a hole-in-one.

Firing three birdies on the second nine, after a par 33 on the first, Longworth got home with a beautiful 66. The Portland pro shared honors with Jimmy Thomson, Shawnee, Del., for the best score on the final eighteen. Thomson finished in a tie for twenty-first position with 285.

When his putter failed him badly Lawson Little, San Francisco, blew his chance for first place with disastrous 76 in the afternoon. The former British and United States amateur champion, got off to a good start, but when he three-putted a couple of (Turn to Page 15, Column 2)

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

CITY OF SIEGES
Gerona, capital of the province of the same name in northeastern Spain, has undergone one of the most stormy existences in history.

For a long time in the hands of the Moors, Gerona was taken over by Charlemagne in 785. Ten years later it was retaken by the Moors, who were expelled for the last time in 1015.

Besieged no less than twenty-five times, the inhabitants of the city were forced to capitulate only four times. In 1809 occurred one of the greatest demonstrations of resistance in military annals when Gerona was besieged by a French force numbering 35,000 troops, and forty batteries of artillery.

Under a tremendous bombardment and numerous infantry attacks over a sustained period of more than seven months, the city finally was taken, but it was a shallow victory for the French. It is reliably estimated that more than 20,000 bombs and 60,000 cannon balls were used by the besiegers before the city capitulated. The loss in French soldiers was approximately 15,000.

MONEY HORSE
Strange as it seems, though the famous English racehorse and sire, Isinglass, participated in only twelve races, he was booted home a winner in eleven of them, finishing second in the remaining one.

Still remaining the greatest money winner in the history of English turfdom, Isinglass has been surpassed by few horses of the world and by no gelding that ran as few races as he. His record was established late in the nineteenth century when purses were far leaner than they are today.

Most of the athletes' ailments are of a minor character, featuring an epidemic of colds and sore throats and muscles.

FOUR CRICKET PROS CHOSEN

English Eleven to Tour Australia Next Winter Is Completed

London, July 30.—Four professionals were selected yesterday for the English cricket team to tour Australia next winter. Eleven players, including two amateurs, have now been invited, seven having been chosen July 20.

The four asked yesterday were George Duckworth, Lancashire wicketkeeper and veteran of many tests; T. Worthington and W. H. Copson, two promising players from Derbyshire, and A. E. Fagg, one of Kent's opening batsmen, who has performed well in county cricket this season.

G. O. Allen and R. M. V. Robins, Middlesex, Australian-born skipper of the English team, has been one of England's leading players for years, while the thirty-year-old Robins is known as both bowler and batsman.

Wally Hammond, veteran Gloucestershire batsman, who performed brilliantly for his country against India in the second test match between the two countries, concluded Tuesday, has also been asked to play. Joseph Hardstaff, Nottinghamshire, and L. B. Fishlock, Surrey, both of whom had test experience in the second test against India, and Maurice Leyland and Hedley Verity, Yorkshire.

Canadians Lucky In Olympic Draw

Dominion's Swimming Representatives Are Fortunate in Getting Good Places in Qualifying Heats; Canada's Chances For Winter Games in 1940 Look Slim

Still On Top

By ELMER DULMAGE
Berlin, July 30.—Canada's hopes to have the winter and summer Olympic Games awarded separately, with a view to staging the 1940 winter meet in the Dominion, appeared headed for failure today with Great Britain out of the race for the next Olympiad.

The Canadian proposal will go before the international Olympic committee but it is reported in inner circles it has little chance of adoption. Canadian members of the committee are understood to have discussed their proposal with representatives of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa and to have obtained their support. Had Britain received the twelfth Olympiad, it is believed the Canadians might have been given the snow and ice events and carried out their plan to stage them in Montreal and the nearby Laurentian Mountains.

In the event the committee splits the two branches of the international games, Canada will make immediate application for the winter event, but the consensus is that Japan will be awarded the next Olympics in their entirety.

TRAINED YESTERDAY

While the track and field contenders of Canada and the other nations competing in the games, opening Sunday, hoped for a continuation of the sunshine that permitted a much needed training session late yesterday, almost as much anxiety centered around the drawing of names for the qualifying heats.

The already completed draw for the swimming events left Canada's contenders generally pleased.

Munroe Bourne, the Montreal veteran, apparently fell into the softest heat of the 100 metres. Adjudicator of the Philippines stacking up as the most dangerous of six rivals, Bob Hamerton, Winnipeg, was drawn with Pick of the United States and Cadry, Egypt, while George Larsen, Hamilton, faces the dangerous Taguchi, Japan.

Bob Pirie, Toronto's redoubtable artist in the 400 metre event, will meet Cooper, Bermuda, and the Frenchman, Tatis. Also in this event Bob Hooper, Vancouver, meets Negami of the strong Japanese squad and the Canadian, Denouden, and the Japanese, Purutsu, are in the same heat.

The nineteen-year-old Pirie, holder of most Canadian records, is expected to qualify easily in the 400 and 1,500 metres. In his heat at the longer distance he met Ishinara, Japan, and Patujza, Austria. Hooper meets Jack Medina, American ace, and Terada, Japan, in a stiff test.

In the women's division, Phyllis Dewar, Vancouver, seemingly has an excellent chance of qualifying in her heats at 100 and 400 metres. She meets Katherine Bavis of the United States in the 100, and Marjorie Hilton, England, over the longer route.

Mrs. Irene Pirie Hilton, sister of Bob, appears to have her work cut out in the shorter event. Olive McKen, America, the Dutch star, Denouden, and the Japanese, Purutsu, are in the same heat.

The "sold out" sign for all Olympic games will be hung out by the time each event is scheduled, according to the optimistic views of German officials.

For the opening ceremony Saturday, all aquatic events and the track and field competition are sold out as far as the Germans are concerned. With foreigners it is a different story. Other currency succeeds where the mark fails in getting tickets for the "sold out" events, if they're paid for in foreign exchange.

SOFTBALLERS IN DEADLOCK

Colbert's Grocery Takes Second Game of Inter-sectional Play-offs

In the second game of the inter-sectional playdowns Colbert's Grocery scored thirteen runs in the first three innings and checked in with two more in the remaining frames to trounce the Esquimalt Meat Market softball nine 15 to 5 yesterday evening.

As a result a third fixture will be necessary tomorrow as both teams are deadlocked with a game each in the series.

Beech started on the mound for the Esquimalt lads but was yanked in the second frame in favor of Watt who, after two shaky innings, settled down to hold Colbert's in check for the remainder of the game, allowing only two additional runs.

BIG LACROSSE GAME LISTED

Old-timers to Meet Later Day Players in Exhibition Here Saturday

Those old-timers who featured in sports headlines a decade or so ago when lacrosse wars were waged fiercely here, will turn out Saturday to show just how much they have remembered of the gutted stick game in an exhibition against a younger squad at the Athletic Park. Play will start at 2.30 o'clock.

The feature may be preceded by a match between a school-age team from Duncan and a local squad.

S. Noel, S. Rickinson, R. Williams, W. Passmore, L. Stevens, J. Taylor, F. Soafe, C. Nicol, W. Slater, "Buns" Hardy will form the squad to meet the old-timers, whose members include W. Dinmore, P. Jenkins, C. Fairall, E. Popham, Menzies, "Boots" McClure, Pottinger, John Johnson, T. Robbs, F. Harding, T. Sargison, Sten Ross, Stewart Bryn-Johnson and E. W. McClure.

The latter team is scheduled to hold a workout this evening at Central School grounds as a final practice for the exhibition.

Seattle Pair Stage Great Rally To Win P.N.W. Sectional Doubles

Langlie, Nordstrom Pull Out Of Slump To Beat Vancouver

Elwood Cooke Retains P.N.W. Sectional Singles Crown By Beating C. Milne

CALIFORNIANS WIN B.C. GAMES

Back on the throne they occupied in 1930, the spectacled Howie Langlie and lanky Lloyd Nordstrom, Seattle, reigned monarchs of the Pacific Northwest sectional doubles tennis world today. They attained the cherished position the hard way, fighting an uphill battle to overcome a two set three game deficit and win 3-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 against Colin Milne and George Sparling, Vancouver, at the Victoria Club yesterday.

They shared the sun with Elwood "Cookey" Cooke, the boy who came up from Portland's public courts to win the Pacific Northwest sectional singles last year. Before Milne and Sparling took the court to lose their heartbreaking effort at the doubles crown, Cooke outlasted Milne in the singles final 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, to retain his laurels.

ADVANCE IN B.C. PLAY

The matches featured yesterday afternoon's play as invading tennis stars swept through to quarter-finals and semi-finals in the different branches of the British Columbia championships, continuing on the Fort Street courts until Saturday.

It was a grand triumph for the Seattle pair as they hurdled what seemed to be an impossible obstacle.

B.C. Golfers Are Defeated

Calgary, July 30. — Alberta's Willingdon Cup golf team defeated British Columbia's representatives in an exhibition match here yesterday, a warm-up for the annual event opening in Winnipeg next week. Alberta won by two strokes.

Alberta scored 310 in an eighteen-hole medal-play round over the country club course. The coast province players had 312.

But it was a bitter loss taken with good grace by the Vancouver men.

The tide of fortune ran hard against Milne during the afternoon. He left his singles defeat to turn in a sparkling performance in the sectional doubles final, but lost as the Seattle pair of Langlie and Nordstrom dropped the indifferent tennis they had played during the first two sets and swung to a brilliant game.

The doubles final produced some of the finest shots and most spirited rallies of the tournament to date as Langlie rifled drives down the side lanes and Nordstrom smashed his end cross-court shots at the net. Milne used his usual placement game and volleyed well, while Sparling, apparently tiring towards the close of the match, was having difficulty with his overhead game.

DOUBLES FINAL

Service breaks featured the opening of the first set as the pairs went into 2-2 game tie. Milne and Sparling settled down, took the lead and ran out on the eighth and ninth games to win 6-3.

The Vancouver men went into a 4-1 lead in the second before Langlie and Nordstrom rallied to win a pair and trail 4-3. The Canadians broke (Turn to Page 15, Column 2)

AID FISH IN GOLDSTREAM

Crusade of Twenty-four Anglers Builds Dams to Form Pools For Fry

Working for four solid hours with shovels, picks and doing plenty of rock lifting, a crusade of twenty-four anglers made up from the Victoria and District Fish and Game Association and the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, did much to aid doomed fish, namely coho salmon fingerlings and trout fry in Goldstream yesterday afternoon.

Many of those present usually journey to their favorite fishing grounds during the mid-week half holiday, but when told of the predicament the fish were in, they responded with alacrity to the call for volunteers and before they finished for the day a vast improvement in condition for the fish was the verdict.

All of a dozen crude, but effective dams, constructed by boulders, small rocks and gravel, were built up a two-mile stretch of the river, from the mouth upstream, by the volunteer workers. These dams were built at strategic points along the stream to form sizeable pools for the fish to advance into on their journey to the sea. In the centre of each dam a small outlet was left for the fish to pass through.

FINE GESTURE

Dr. C. McC. Mottley, newly-appointed advisor on fish culture to the British Columbia Game, Department and Game Warden Bruce Cass, were on hand and pointed out to the crusaders just where their work would be most beneficial to the fish. They pitched in and did their share of the work also. It was Dr. Mottley who first discovered the poor situation at Goldstream, which led him to write to Roger Monteith to organize a party for immediate action.

Dr. Mottley, in speaking to the anglers after they had finished their day's work, said that if all organizations interested in fish in the province would pitch in and willingly co-operate as they did when such an occasion arises, the standard of fishing in British Columbia would be much improved.

The party thanked the fish culturists for excellent co-operation in this matter and said they would be ready at his call if another such occasion should arise.

Amongst the party was a visiting sportsman from New Zealand, in the person of K. Cameron, who turned in and worked just as hard, and if not harder, than the rest of the party. There is still a little more work to be done at Goldstream yet and it is expected that a party will be formed next Wednesday to attend to this.

The city co-operated in a fine manner by loaning the expedition the necessary implements, along with a car.

The party consisted of the following: Bill Halliday, Bob Hawkes, Ed Clayards, Roy Holyoak, Crawford MacDonald, Elbeek "Al" Wilson, Len Holyoak, Stan "Blondy" Williams, Bruce Cash, Charlie Christopher, Will B. Christopher, Graham Harris, K. Cameron, N.Z., G. Leckie-Ewing, fisheries guardian; H. Thompson, Arthur Pitts, "Smiling" Bill Rowe, Dr. C. McC. Mottley, Harold G. Philbrook.

YOUNGSTER WINS FOUR

Apprentice Jockey Cotton Barnett Has Great Day at Hastings Park

Vancouver, July 30.—After scoring victories in the first three races of the day, Jockey Cotton Barnett, diminutive apprentice, brought H. J. Perry's Marcus Docile home safely in the $1,000 Canadian Championship, feature event at Hastings Park track yesterday.

The youngster received a great ovation from the crowd as he brought his fourth winner home.

He rode Triassic to win in the first race and Lady Goldstream in the second. In the third race, young Barnett mounted Lady Torchilla, a 21-to-1 shot, and brought her home after a hard stretch drive, staying off Sweet Pekoe and Wascatch Dell, who finished in that order.

Dr. O. Hartnagel's Lakeland crossed the wire first in the sixth race, but was disqualified and placed second behind Jillion for swerving in the stretch and bumping.

New York Giants Look Like Threat

Continue Climb in National League Baseball Race By Beating Chicago 7 to 2; Cardinals Break Even in Two; Yanks Whip Detroit

The National League's eastern forces, a collective thorn in the side of Bill Terry and his New York Giants for years, have turned over a new leaf.

Instead of standing in the Giants' way—a habit that more than once has cost the New Yorkers the pennant—the eastern contingent is helping the Terry-men's current climb by making life miserable for the western leaders—the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates.

The combined eastern assault has shot the Giants securely into third place, dropped the Pirates into fourth and made the New Yorkers a red-hot threat to the Cards in second.

The Giants themselves have been leading the way. Fresh from a two-out-of-three edge over the Cardinals, and three-out-of-four over the Cincinnati Reds, Terry and his boys belted out a 7 to 2 victory over the Cubs yesterday to pull up nearer the Cards and the league leaders.

The Brooklyn Dodgers handed the Cards their worst beating of the year, 22 to 7, in the opener of a doubleheader, and then fell short with a late-inning rally to lose the nightcap 5 to 4.

The Boston Bees also split, losing the nightcap to the Pirates 10 to 4, after Danny MacGarry's nine-hit pitching won the first game 4 to 1.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

The New York Yankees teed off against Detroit pitching for the second straight day, and with Lou Gehrig plying his thirty-second homer of the season, slugged out a 13 to 3 triumph.

The American League lead of "murderers" row" was clipped by eight and a half games by the twin victory of the second place Cleveland Indians over the Washington Senators, 11 to 6 and 6 to 5.

The Boston Red Sox found Elton Hogen's slants too tough to solve and wound up on the short end of a 9 to 3 contest against the St. Louis Browns.

The Chicago White Sox sent the Philadelphia Athletics into the cellar and climbed back into fourth place themselves with a 7 to 5 win.

COAST LEAGUE

A deluge of base hits moved Portland's fast-stepping Beavers within two games of first place today in the ever-changing Coast League race.

Portland staged a seven-run rally to defeat Sacramento 8 to 6, while the league-leading Seattle Indians lost an eleven-inning encounter, during which five home runs were belted.

In the two northwest games, battersmen garnered a total of fifty-five hits.

San Diego and Los Angeles changed places at the head of the second division as the Padres beat the Seraphs, 5 to 1.

San Francisco's intramural series was even-stepped by the Missions' 4 to 3 victory over the Seals.

Oakland finished its wild contest with Seattle in impressive fashion as Fern Bell and Leroy Anton hit homers in the eleventh inning. Home runs played a prominent part throughout. After Jack Glyn homed in the first, Freddie Mueller blasted his twenty-fifth of the year for the Indians to start a parade of pitchers. Art Hunt's four-ply swat in the eighth with two Indians on tied the score at 9 to 9.

Heavyweight Title Fight in Afternoon

New York, July 30.—If the New York State Athletic Commission approves, the September heavyweight title bout between James J. Braddock and Max Schmeling will be fought in the afternoon, the first time a heavyweight championship has been decided since Dempsey outpointed Tommy Gibbons at Shelby, Mont., in July, 1923.

James J. Braddock, Madison Square Garden promoter, conferred yesterday with Braddock's manager, Joe Gould. September 26 was selected as the tentative date for the bout.

One historian estimates that there were probably 150,000 Spaniards in the New World by 1574.

Extra Grant of $25,000 to Vancouver Is Agreed Upon

The provincial government will give Vancouver $25,000 for its Golden Jubilee celebration. It was announced here this morning following representations made to the cabinet yesterday by the Vancouver Liberal members.

The grant will be contingent upon Vancouver council contributing $25,000 and the raising of $46,000 by public subscription, to make up a total of $96,000 required to meet jubilee expenses.

The government gave Vancouver an initial grant of $25,000 for its jubilee earlier in the year.

In the announcement, it was stated the government fully appreciates the benefits derived not only to Vancouver, but to the entire province for the world-wide publicity campaign carried on in connection with the jubilee programme, and was concerned with the representations that funds were not available for its successful continuance.

One B.C. Girl Left In Tennis Finals

Eleanor Young, Vancouver, Lone Provincial Survivor In Tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis Club; Hippensteel Wins Again; Milne Defeated

Eleanor Young, Vancouver, remained the lone provincial player in the British Columbia singles championship in progress at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club today as United States stars continued their domination of the tournament this morning.

Peggy Hocking and Mrs. S. P. Bierley, Victoria, fell before Miss Young and Virginia Wolfenden, San Francisco, respectively, while Colin Milne, Vancouver, was defeated in a delayed third round match.

Milne, hard-luck entry in the British Columbia and Pacific Northwest sectional championships, dropped from the provincial play in his match against Verne Hughes, Los Angeles. Below the fold he displayed in his game, but unsuccessful stand against Elwood Cooke in the sectional finals yesterday, Milne still had enough to pull out of a three-game slump and win the first set 6-4. Hughes opened up in the second, taking the first three games before Milne gained one, and then ran out 6-1. Milne carried several games to duce in the third and deciding set, but failed to clinch one as Hughes ran out 6-0.

HIPPENSTEEL ADVANCES
Bob Hippensteel, San Bernardino, upset victor over Mel Dragna, Seattle, yesterday, continued his successful march into the semi-finals in the women's singles with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Jack Kneisler, Los Angeles. Kneisler snatched a game from set point in the second set, but could not sustain his rally against the steady San Bernardino player.

Anne Morgan, Berkeley, latest protégé of "Pop" Fuller, the man who sponsored Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, won an important quarter-final women's singles from Mrs. Frances Del Amo, attractive Los Angeles player, 6-1, 6-1. Anne, a sturdy miss of fifteen years, forced pace all the way to score her victory. Recently she won the Washington State women's singles in Seattle, and rates now among the favored for the British Columbia crown.

VICTORIANS OUT
Victoria's representation went out of the women's singles in the quarter-finals as Mrs. Peggy Hocking bowed to Eleanor Young, Vancouver, 6-4, 6-4 after a particularly good run, and Mrs. Bierley fell before Virginia Wolfenden, San Francisco, 6-1, 6-2. Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, reached the semi-final in the same division with a 6-1, 6-4 decision over Mrs. Golda Myer Gross, Berkeley. The Los Angeles player put greater power behind her drives and was good on placements.

Play continued in the unofficial junior tournament which opened yesterday with the youngsters from outside points, putting up some smart exhibitions.

The visitors were delighted to find the boys so contented and happy; and the camp in such good working order.

Later, the party attended the softball game between the forestry boys and Lake Cowichan, the foresters, owing to the good pitching of A. Rogers, who also made two home runs, winning the game by 21 to 13.

Previous to the game the boys paraded, headed by H. Woods, playing the bagpipes. The forestry players were A. Rogers, W. Dugan, K. Wiper, T. Carney, A. Robinson, W. Miers, L. Irving and K. Williams.

Connell was given a big vote of confidence for his leadership in the Legislature. The dispute developed however in the building of the C.C.F. platform.

The outcome of this split was somewhat obscure as it became public property today. Mr. Connell, it is understood, has the support of a majority of the C.C.F. House members in his stand, but wrote to the association over his own signature only.

The original dispute dates back to the last session of the B.C. Legislature when Mr. Connell took issue with the two members of the Winch family, E. E. and Harold E., on the question of the C.C.F. attitude to Socialism.

Today's action opened the avenue for speculation as to what will happen when the legislature meet again in the fall.

Following is the full text of Mr. Connell's letter:

July 28, 1936

"To the President and Provincial Executive, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation (B.C. Section), Vancouver, B.C.

"Gentlemen—I have received from the President and from Mr. Be-phens letters inviting me to speak on the radio on behalf of the C.C.F., and I have replied stating that it is impossible for me to do so. Further to set forth the reasons therein briefly stated, I desire to make the following statement of my position:

"1. I am unable to accept the platform proposed by the recent convention because, in my opinion:

(1) It is totally unsuitable as a statement of immediate policy for a C.C.F. government in this province;

(2) It is calculated to excite hopes that cannot be fulfilled and so to cause disillusionment and disappointment;

(3) It is fantastic and impracticable in its financial plank of "socialized finance";

(4) It omits certain fundamental elements of proper government, such as C.C.F. government must candidly and wholeheartedly commit itself, viz: the removal of the civil service and of the road construction and maintenance work from political influence and intrigue;

(5) It fails to emphasize the need of adult education, so essential to successful co-operative enterprises.

2. (1) I am unalterably opposed to any dealings whatever with the Communist Party or any of its organizations because history and experience prove its betrayal of all who trust in it; and for this reason:

(2) I cannot approve tacitly or openly of an executive which has for chairman of its organization committee one who is a self-declared pro-Communist, and whose efforts show their fruits in the invasion of C.C.F. clubs and of the convention itself by Communists and their sympathizers.

"3. I am entirely out of sympathy with the attitude taken by sympathetic conventions and particularly that of 1936, towards the M.P.'s and M.L.A.'s elected under the auspices of the C.C.F. and supposedly chosen by their nominators as persons in whom they have confidence, an attitude of suspicion and distrust expressed in various resolutions passed by the convention and finally in the circular letter recently sent out by the Speakers' Committee. For my suspicion and distrust no ground has been openly stated and so far as I am aware, none has ever been given. Personally I refuse to accept the position of a mere delegate of convention or executive speaking 'his master's' words if not echoing his voice.

"4. I profoundly resent the implication of certain resolutions of clubs sent to me that because I am not ashamed to profess loyalty to God and my King, I am therefore a traitor to the people's cause.

"5. Finally, I desire to assert that I am as loyal to the original manifesto of Regina as ever, and I wholeheartedly accept it as a genuine declaration of principles and policies calculated to benefit in their fulfillment and at every step in that fulfillment all classes of people in this Dominion; but I maintain that within the confines of this province the procedure of the C.C.F. can only be successfully begun by such a policy as I outlined to the Legislative Assembly last spring. The C.C.F. as a movement is vastly greater than the sum total of all its organizations as so successfully increasing vote has so well shown, but we can only hold and increase that vote by giving our supporters and those who have not yet supported us, solid grounds of confidence in our sanity and wisdom. It is necessary to save our movement from the sinister influences that are threatening it; it is equally necessary that we present our aims to the people of this province in a sane and wisely considered platform, and in so far as we make promises keeping them well within the confines of possible and probable fulfillment.

"I have endeavored thus to set before you as briefly as possible some at least of the reasons which make it impossible for me to support the new platform and policies of the C.C.F. in this province as expressed by the convention and the executive. I am giving a copy of this letter to the press.

(Signed) ROBERT CONNELL

Who's Who At Hotels

"It is easier to find jobs for our pupils now. That worried us for two or three years, but things are opening up splendidly," said M. C. Shaw, Toronto, founder of the Spratt-Shaw business schools, at the Dominion Hotel this morning.

Mr. Shaw arrived here yesterday to visit the local school. Asked if there was any truth in rumors that he planned to make his home here, Mr. Shaw said: "No, I had better not go as far as saying that. I am very impressed with the conditions that prevail here, and I think it would be a great place to live. But I have been over forty years in Toronto, and there are many associations there that it would be hard to break." Mr. Shaw left this afternoon for Vancouver on his way home.

Among the latest to register from the United States at the Dominion Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Eisinger, Grant's Pass, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Thorpe, Susanville, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Welsh, Dunsmuir, Calif.; Mrs. Mary M. Hawthorn and Miss Agnes Clancy, Denver; the Misses Bertha and Selma Naim, Denver; A. J. Crawford, Carlsbad, N.B.; Dr. and Mrs. D. Osborn, Portland; the Misses Gertrude and Grace Crowe, San Diego; E. Cline and A. Austin, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holdsworth and their son, Whittier, Calif.; Mrs. W. J. Archer, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. Gilling, Tiffin, Ohio, and Mrs. L. Curry, Jacksonville, Fla.

A boom in apartment house building has followed one of the largest winter tourist seasons on record in Hawaii, according to Mrs. Jessie A. Chalmers of Honolulu, who is staying at the Empress Hotel at present with Mrs. C. Fuller, also of Honolulu.

The traffic was so heavy during the season that on one occasion there was not sufficient accommodation for visitors, and the incoming parties had to remain on board ship until there were vacancies in hotels, said Mrs. Chalmers.

The two ladies will remain in Victoria until the beginning of September.

"There is no place like Victoria," said Mrs. Chalmers, who has been coming here at regular intervals since 1916.

"The bloom is very Scottish," said Mrs. Fuller.

Both ladies came originally from Scotland. Mrs. Chalmers from Aberdeen, and Mrs. Fuller from Kilmuir, famous as Barrie's "Thru's".

Mrs. Chalmers went out to the Hawaiian Islands forty-two years ago.

Both ladies plan a visit to England next year. "We want to go after the coronation, to avoid the crowds," they said.

"I think your gardens are perfectly lovely, and your city beautiful," said Mrs. A. B. Chalmers, who is a prominent California garden club, at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Miss Bean is just back from a long trip to Alaska. She has come over here to rest and to look at the city's famous flowers, she says.

Life insurance men from several states and provinces are in conference at the Empress Hotel today, taking part in the regional convention of the Northern and International departments of the West Coast Life Insurance Company.

The meetings began yesterday evening, and will conclude at noon tomorrow. They are of an informal nature, and combine entertainment features with technical discussions.

J. W. Stewart, superintendent of agencies, is presiding at the sessions.

Commander E. Longstreth of Colorado, California, retired United States naval officer and enthusiastic yachtsman who keeps one of his vessels in Victoria, is at the Empress Hotel awaiting the return of Mrs. Longstreth from a trip to Sweden.

Mrs. Longstreth arrived in New York on the R.M.S. Queen Mary a couple of days ago, and called J. K. Hodges, manager of the Empress Hotel, by long distance telephone to announce that she will probably be here in about a week's time.

It is understood that she is bringing back several pedigree bulldogs with her to add to Commander Longstreth's kennels.

E. F. L. Sturdee, general passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Vancouver, is at the Empress Hotel today. Mr. Sturdee arrived yesterday and was in conference this morning with James Macfarlane, local agent.

Among the latest arrivals from California at the Empress Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Huntington, Glendale; Mrs. B. W. Black and Miss Margaret Black, Berkeley; Mrs. E. H. Tibbets and Miss M. M. Tibbets, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Case, San Francisco; Dr. and Mrs. C. Sweet and their children, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. D. N. MacConnell, Beverly Hills; Mr. and Mrs. J. Frankel, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. M. Dirchberg and Mr. and Mrs. D. Fox, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. J. Machado and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Supple, St. Louis; C. E. Miller, Sacramento; Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Gavin, Los Angeles; J. Cawwell, Burlingame; Mr. and Mrs. K. Daily and family, Richmond; Miss R. W. Dunn, Corte Madera; Miss N. Hansen, Alameda, and the Misses E. Olds and M. A. Lawyers Argue Soliciting Law
Validity of City By-law Questioned in Police Court

The question of the validity of a city by-law which, it was argued, conflicts with a section of the Canada Shipping Act pertaining to soliciting for taxis and sightseeing vehicles on dock and wharves, was questioned before Magistrate Jay in the City Police Court this morning.

The court reserved judgment until next Monday.

George Mowat, A. E. Chilton, J. H. Smith and Thomas Starmer were charged with soliciting at the C.P.R. dock more than six feet from their vehicles in contravention of the civic by-law.

The Mowat case proceeded this morning as a test case, with H. A. Maclean conducting the defence and C. L. Harrison appearing for the prosecution.

Prosecution evidence was that the accused was soliciting on the C.P.R. ramp, leading to the steamer landing, while their buses were parked fifty or sixty feet away. Fred Tubman, superintendent of the Royal Blue Line, testified he had seen them there.

Captain R. W. McMurray, manager of the B.C.S.S., was called by the defence to prove a contract between the C.P.R. and the Empress Sightseeing Company, which gave the latter company permission to have an agent on the C.P.R. dock for the service of the steamer patrons.

A. E. Chilton, superintendent of the Gray Line, testified he and the others charged had been on the wharf directing travelers to Gray Line buses which were parked on the lower section of the dock.

Mr. Maclean moved for dismissal of the charge on the grounds the civic by-law was superseded by the Canada Shipping Act since wharves, docks and railway terminals were under federal jurisdiction. The act allowed soliciting if permission were granted by the dock owners, he said, and submitted the contract between the C.P.R. and the sightseeing firm gave the necessary permission. This City Council, he argued, had no right to legislate for private property, and he contended the clause dealing with drivers being within six feet of their cars pertained only to soliciting in the street.

Perfect Weather Is Experienced

While the rest of the province, except Vancouver Island, sweaters in the heat these days, Victoria remains cool and fresh, much to the delight of tourists from warmer parts of the continent.

The official temperature at the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill yesterday and today was sixty-eight degrees. In the business section and in sheltered parts of the city it was much warmer than this, unofficial thermometers climbing to between seventy-five and eighty degrees at the noon hour.

The weather map shows the weather will continue fine for several days. There has been no rain in Victoria for over three weeks.

The tender of Walter Walker and Sons Ltd. to supply 800 tons of Nainaim-Douglas coal for consumption in city schools was accepted yesterday evening by the City School Board. Two tenders of $4 a cord were received for 300 cords of wood but the trustees decided to call again for tenders when they were informed the price last year was $3.75 a cord.

The City School Board yesterday evening considered an offer from the Alert Service Company to install a sawdust burner in Victoria High School free of charge. The offer stipulated the board would purchase sawdust for the burner for two years from the company at the price now paid for oil.

BROAD QUESTION

C. L. Harrison said the question was a broad one with wide ramifications. It was a question of whether the by-law applied to a person soliciting on the wharf. The city had the power under provincial statute to prohibit soliciting, but it was a question whether the federal act did not supersede the city legislation. If the federal act did hold, then Mr. Harrison claimed the contract did not give the proper permission in accordance with the terms of the Canada Shipping Act.

Again, if the by-law were inoperative, then there was nothing to stop companies securing permission to solicit from any other wharves along the waterfront, he said.

New Companies Incorporated

Two new Victoria concerns, Point Ellice Lumber Company Limited and Savoy Cafe Limited, and two large B.C. mining companies with capitalizations of $1,500,000 each were incorporated during the last week, according to the Registrar of Companies' office, which announced the following list of new incorporations today:

Paul Muni At
Oak Bay House

Paul Muni has scored many notable successes in his stage and screen career, but it is doubtful if he has ever risen to such heights of dramatic ability as he does in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which opened today at the Oak Bay House.

So tense is the thrilling drama of Pasteur's battle for the human race that the audience completely forgets it is Muni on the screen and not the great French scientist, who has done so much for humanity. Hated and scorned, branded as a quack, and an enemy of mankind, Pasteur lived to see his work recognized and himself acclaimed as the greatest scientist of his age.

LANGLIE, NORDSTROM PULL OUT OF SLUMP TO BEAT VANCOUVER

through Langlie's serve and Sparling won his, finishing the match with an ace 6-3.

As they started the third, Nordstrom hit his stride on kills and was scoring regularly on the Vancouver pair's jobs. The Sound City men pulled ahead 2-0 and then 4-2 as service breaks came into the game. Seattle took the seventh game, dropped the eighth and finished the game on the ninth.

Langlie steadied down in the fourth set and the Seattle men crept up on an early Vancouver lead until they were tied at 4-4. They broke through Sparling's service in the ninth and won on Nordstrom's in the tenth to tie the match.

LANGLIE SCORING

Milne and Sparling started well in the last set, taking an easy first game, Sparling faltered slightly and Langlie scored on side line drives as the game score was tied with Langlie winning his service. Seattle broke through Sparling and then lost service. The United States pair took the lead with a victory in the fifth game and went 4-2 when Nordstrom scored out his serve in the sixth. Sparling and Milne came back to take the seventh and then tied the match at 4-4 with a grand rally in the eighth. Playing better as the set progressed, the Seattle duo took the ninth and tenth games for the set match.

In the sectional singles final, Cooke and Milne opened with steady games, the first set going to Cooke, 6-4. Milne returned to win the second by the same count before Cooke's unhurried placements and smart driving gave him the third, 6-2.

The score set—saved in the fourth, Cooke taking a 2-1 lead and regaining the edge at 3-2 after Milne had squared the set. They were tied again at 3-3 as Milne took his service, but from that point Cooke's back court game proved superior and the defending champion ran out 6-3.

HOCKING HEATEN

Victoria faded from the men's B.C. singles picture as Bud Hocking, local survivor of earlier play, bowed to San Francisco's kid artist, Ed. Alloo, 6-2, 6-4.

Hocking and Gordon put up a good fight in the third round of the B.C. doubles against Ray Casey and J. J. Moreno, highly rated pair from Los Angeles. The first set went 8-6, but the mighty Casey and his red-headed partner tightened up to win the second, 6-3.

Victoria retained feminine half interest in a couple of mixed doubles as the section swept through the second round, but in the majority of cases, Californians carried the day.

Fred Astaire Plays Opposite Her in "In Person" Opening Today

Ginger Rogers, "In Person," now at the Atlas Theatre.

The erstwhile co-star with Fred Astaire of the singing-dancing, romancing successes, "Roberta," "Top Hat," "Flying Down to Rio" and "The Gay Divorcee," provides rollicking romantic comedy with a demonstration of what a young lady can do with a recalcitrant male.

George Brent, who was Garbo's leading man in "The Painted Veil," appears opposite Miss Rogers, with Alan Mowbray, Grant Mitchell, Sam Hinds portraying other important parts.

"In Person," RKO Radio Picture was penned by Samuel Hopkins Adams, writer of the prize-winning screen play of "It Happened One Night." William Selzer directed from Allan Scott's scenario. The comedy-drama "His Family Tree" starring and Barton is also shown.

"ESKIMO" AT THE COLUMBIA

Thrilling Drama of Arctic Shows Life of the Natives

Romance with a new flavor is provided by a type of leading man new to the screen in "Eskimo." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of the Arctic filmed during the year's stay of the studio's polar expedition in the Far North. It opened today at the Columbia Theatre.

This leading man, who has become a sensation as the result of the picture, is Mala, who heads the native cast. Tall, handsome, the swarthy son of the icebergs has the features of a bronze statue. A great hunter and tribal leader, he stages the struggle of polar bear and walrus capture, the fight with the wolf, and such astounding action perfectly naturally—it is only what he has done all his life.

Buying In Aviation Issues Touches Off Upswing At Wall St.

Issues Touches Off Upswing At Wall St.

Issues Touches Off Upswing At Wall St.

New York, July 30.—Extensive buying in selected aviation issues brought a rallying turn to today's stock market with gains among the favorites ranging from fractions to two or more points.

The aircraft were followed by the steel, alcohol, amusements and specialties. There were a few soft spots, however, and the volume was smaller than recently. Transfers were around 1,600,000 shares. The close was steady.

The market got off to a good start, but realising in most divisions kept the brakes on during the morning.

The buying movement picked up near the final hour when the best prices of the session were established. While several stocks reached new five-year peaks, there was a shattering of year's lows.

Further study of the steel situation brought a friendlier attitude toward this department. The belief was expressed by observers that Wednesday's selling may have been overdone. This also applied to the motors, they said.

Depressing drought news held back the farm implements and, at the same time pushed corn futures up the limit permitted for a day's dealings.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married a year. Sometimes I think I love him. Other times I regret that I married him and wish that I was single again. He has a queer disposition, becomes moody and pessimistic when things don't go exactly to suit him. It is almost unbelievable how upset he gets over a little incident that any one else would pass over without a thought. Somehow I can't make myself cater to his moods and try to make him snap out of them. I am too disgusted with his childishness. He is very intelligent and has a position with a promising future. I work in an office. We have a nicely-furnished apartment. But there seems to be something lacking, compatibility and understanding. Or, perhaps, it is real love. What shall I do? Shall I hide my time for another year and see how things are going? My husband says I am spoiled, so no doubt I am partly to blame for things. N.Q.H.

Answer: Your case is not unusual. Along toward the end of the first year of marriage most young husbands and wives go through a reaction that makes them regret their marriages and wish they were single again. The honeymoon has set. They are fed up on hilling and gooning and surfeited with kisses. The novelty of being together and in their own home has worn off and they begin to figure on whether marriage is worth all it cost and to look at their lost freedom with longing and to wonder if they really do care enough about those they are tied to to stand them and their faults and little ways for a lifetime.

If divorces grew on trees and were to be had for the taking, there wouldn't be many second wedding anniversaries celebrated, but luckily they do not. Most divorces are expensive and messy luxuries in which only the rich and the cinema stars can indulge freely. So, more or less, the married have to stick it. Also, pride comes to their aid and a sense of duty and obligation and good sportsmanship. So after a few quarrels over nothing and a few tears, most brides and grooms get their second winds and settle down to making a go of their marriages.

And their reward is generally in finding out that if their romantic love has flown out of the window, an affection far deeper and more satisfying has taken its place and they are not out of love after all, but really in love for the first time, and they are not sorry they married, they are glad of it.

So take for your comfort, the fact that you are just passing through the usual after-marriage slump. You will recover from the depression, but you can expedite the happy day by performing the act generally known as pulling yourself up by your bootstraps.

Every wife has to do that. Every woman who makes a success of her marriage has to manufacture the sunshine of her home and she has to get along with her husband by dealing with his disposition "as is" and not as it seems. She has to cater to his moods, buck him up when he is down in the mouth, smooth his fur for the right way when it is standing on end and humor his childishness, for no man ever quite grows out of being a little boy, no matter if he lives to be a hundred. And it is worse than folly for a woman to say she won't do these things. It is suicidal.

You and your husband have youth, love, intelligence, a good start in the world, all the raw materials for making a happy and prosperous marriage, but it is up to you whether you make a failure or a success. Why don't you put as much thought and effort in trying to make a go of your marriage as you do of your business? Why doesn't your husband try as hard to sell himself to you as he does to his customers? Why don't you use as much tact in getting along with your husband as you do with your boss? Why don't you try to understand each other? Why don't you try to correct the faults that each knows gets at the other's nerves?

Believe me, nothing pays such dividends in happiness as a successful marriage. Don't let yours go into bankruptcy before you have really honestly tried to make it go.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—Should a girl give herself to a boy under any circumstances before marriage? If she does, would he misjudge her? When a boy and girl marry, should they destroy all letters, pictures and souvenirs from former sweethearts?

MARIE.

Answer: God thundered down his answer to this question on Mount Sinai. The law and society set their faces against it and tens of thousands of forsaken women, who have sinned through love and who are left with their hearts broken, their names disgraced, their families ashamed of them, teach the folly of it.

There are such things as self-respect and principle and honor, and when a girl throws these away she has not only robbed herself of her most priceless possession, but she has lost something that every worthwhile man wants his wife and the mother of his children to have. He wants her to have the strength of character to resist temptation and the courage, the stamina, the something within herself that will make her hold to the right.

I get many letters from men who have married their mistresses and they always say that even though their wives have been devoted to them and true and loyal, so far as they know, they never trust them. They are always suspicious of them because they believe that the woman who did not have the rock-ribbed virtue to stand by her colors one time would yield again under provocation. Certainly when people marry they should destroy all letters, pictures and souvenirs of former sweethearts, and they should quit talking about their former loves.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow in my seventies. A man in his thirties wants to marry me. Would it be wise for me to consider matrimony with a man so much younger than myself? I am financially independent and healthy enough to be able to go out when I please, but I am still lonely.

PUZZLED WIDOW.

Answer: Don't be puzzled about that any longer. You know perfectly well that no man in his thirties wants to marry a woman in her seventies for anything else but her money. You are certainly going out of your way to hunt for trouble if you marry this lad.

Uncle Wiggily and the Chirping Sparrow

By HOWARD E. GARIS

There was no season of the Summer school today, for Uncle Wiggily wanted to make it a little like the real school as possible, that is, he would only hold class when the animal children asked him to. And today most of them were off to a picnic given by Susie and Sammie Little.

So Uncle Wiggily wandered out toward the back yard. There he saw Spot, the fire dog.

"Why aren't you at the picnic, too, Spot?" the gentleman rabbit asked. "I know you were invited. Did you forget?"

"No, I didn't exactly forget," Spot replied, with sort of an ashamed look on his face. "The fact is, Uncle Wiggily, I fell asleep, and when I awoke everybody had gone, so I thought I might as well finish my nap."

"And a very good idea that was," the bunny agreed, laughing. "It is a very lazy day. I almost think, too, that I'll take a nap myself. I know where there's a extra special fine bit of moss, in the shade of a tree a little way in the woods. Yes, that's just what I'll do."

"Have a nice sleep!" Spot called, as Uncle Wiggily hopped off. "And pleasant dreams!"

"Thank you!" the rabbit replied. "I seldom dream, though. But perhaps this time I will."

The more he thought about that nice bit of moss the sleeper he got. He hopped slowly along, yawning and nodding, until he found the place he was looking for. It was cool and quiet, and taking off his hat Uncle Wiggily lay down on the moss.

"My, but this is delightful!" he murmured. "Nothing to bother me. Everything is perfect. Now for a fine nap!"

He put his paws under his head and stretched out. And in a very short time he was asleep. In fact he was asleep before he knew it. Has that ever happened to you?

And he began to dream. I can't tell you just what the dream was about, for only Uncle Wiggily knows that. But it must have been a pleasant one, for the kind of chucking in his sleep. Perhaps he was dreaming about eating a great big dish of carrot ice cream. Or that he was at a circus, with all the animal children watching the acrobats perform. Whatever it was, Uncle Wiggily enjoyed it.

And then the dream stopped. How do I know? Because Uncle Wiggily stopped snoring and mumbled his ears. And then he opened his eyes, half way, and muttered:

"What is that noise? I hear something. Ho, hum!"

He was still partly asleep, you see. He didn't want to wake up entirely. He wanted to dream the nice dream again. But he couldn't for the noise kept up, and finally the bunny sat up.

"What is that disturbing noise?" he said in a rather fretful voice. "A chirping sound in my ear, I can't sleep with that going on!"

"Excuse me," spoke a little voice. "I didn't mean to disturb you, that's not really, only right where you are lying is."

"Ho!" Uncle Wiggily exclaimed. "Mr. Sparrow! Was it you chirping in my ear?"

"Yes, it was," the sparrow admitted. "Under that moss, Uncle Wiggily, are some very fine worms. And I'd like to take them home to my nest for my children's dinner. I'm awfully sorry, but the children are hungry."

"Say no more about it," the rabbit gentleman laughed, now all awake. "My goodness! I wouldn't keep your dinner from you for the world! Get 'em out the worms, Mr. Sparrow! I will say you're a splendid chirper. You woke me up quite softly and easily. Only I do wish you could remember what I was dreaming about. I've forgotten it completely. Oh, well, it was just a dream after all. And I'm hungry. I guess I'll go home and my dinner."

He did, too. What do you think he had been dreaming of? Perhaps, when you go to sleep, you'll find out what it was. Tomorrow night, if the cheering gum doesn't get stuck on the pencil sharpener, I'll write to sharpen next instead of pencils. I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the noise.
